

CITY BUSINESSMEN TO HELP OFFICIALS BALANCE BUDGET

Will Go Over Items With Board of Estimate and Aldermanic Committee in Meeting Tomorrow.

NOLTE 'GOES ALONG' ON MAYOR'S PLAN

Comptroller Agrees Reluctantly to Back 10 Instead of 19.6 Pct. Reduction in Appropriations.

Representatives of business bodies, demanding rigid economy and a balanced city budget, will confer, in a meeting to begin at 10 a. m. tomorrow, with the City Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Ways and Means Committee of the Board of Aldermen.

The business men intend to go over the budget items with the city officials, and possibly to call in heads of city departments. They will try to apply to the budget, in detail, the principles which they laid down emphatically, but in general terms, in their appearance before the Board of Estimate and Aldermanic Committee yesterday afternoon.

A delegation of 22, representing the Chamber of Commerce, Clearing House Association, Industrial Club and the Bureau of Municipal Research, appeared at City Hall in the midst of the conference which the Board of Estimate and the Aldermanic Committee were holding as an executive session.

Notte Changes His Stand.

The doors were opened to them, but it soon appeared that they were reinforcements arriving after the battle had been lost. Comptroller Nolte, shortly before their arrival, had receded from his demand for a nearly-balanced budget and for reduction of last year's $350,000 deficit, by cutting the appropriations of city departments an average of 19.6 per cent under their last year's expenditures. He had reluctantly agreed "to go along" with Mayor Miller, President Neun and the Aldermen in their program of a 10 per cent cut, with the prospect of a record deficit, now estimated at $1,620,000, at the end of the present fiscal year.

The visitors were told the understanding which had been reached by Nolte and the other officials. They declared that they would not "go along" with any such program. They demanded a further attempt to balance the budget and reduce the deficit. Jacob M. Lashly, lawyer and vice president of the Chamber of Commerce board, did most of the talking, but Richard S. Hawes, banker, offered one suggestion. If a voluntary unbalanced budget would impair the market value of city bonds, Nolte said he had the same fear.

It was decided to hold the meeting tomorrow morning, when one man from each of the business bodies will give the budget with the officials. But the Aldermen, particularly President Neun, took the view that their decision, reached after two weeks of discussion, was not likely to be changed.

The program agreed on by the Aldermen and the Mayor, as outlined by Neun, calls for passage of an ordinance cutting all city salaries 10 per cent. A resolution will be passed, asking certain officials, whose salaries are fixed by the charter, to accept the same reduction voluntarily, and to sign waivers to that effect. State officials paid from city funds will share in the cut so far as the Mayor and Aldermen can get them to do so voluntarily.

A further part of the program, insisted on by Comptroller Nolte before he would "go along," is that there shall be no replacements or promotions during the year. Nolte and Deputy Comptroller Gunn figured that the program would mean a deficit of $1,620,000 for the year, if the total tax rate is $2.74 on $100 valuation, as provided in the pending bill. If it is made $2.71, as last year, the deficit would be nearly $2,000,000. The 3-cent addition was caused by the increasing of the State tax rate from 12 to 15 cents.

Lashly, speaking for the business group at yesterday afternoon's meeting, said the visitors had come to insist on a balanced budget. "If the city has more employees than it needs," he said, "they should be dispensed with, even though that will add to the number of the unemployed. If unnecessary employees are retained, the city may get into a position where, like Chicago and Detroit today, it cannot pay even its necessary employees."

The Aldermen asked Lashly whether he would insist on the $2.71 total tax rate, in spite of the state's 3-cent increase, and whether he wished to see hundreds of patients put out of the hospitals, as some officials here said would be necessary under the proposed cuts.

Against Needless Tax Burden. "This is no time for any unnecessary burden on the taxpayer," Lashly said in reply. "As to the hospitals, they should have what they need, and we do not favor a horizontal cut throughout the budget. That is why we would be glad to go over the budget with your committee in detail."

Comptroller Nolte, in his talk to the visitors, said the budget, as it was submitted to the Aldermen, embodied his experience and that of Deputy Comptroller Gunn. It was estimated that it would reduce the deficit to $327,000.

"But today," Nolte said, "the Aldermen and the Mayor tell me that the proposed cuts are too great, and that 10 per cent is enough of a cut. So I have told them that if they will make a 10 per cent salary cut by ordinance, not just leaving the matter to the department heads, and if they will insist on a policy of no replacements or promotions, I will have to go along with them."

Mayor Miller, in discussions with Lashly and others of the business group, said, "I want to avoid a deficit as much as anybody, but I won't be a party to putting people out of the city institutions."

Neun spoke in a similar vein, and told of the efforts made to find some way of balancing the budget. Chairman Neumann of the Ways and Means Committee and Alderman Kaufmann spoke along the same line, placing the blame for their failure on the Police Board's refusal to "go along" by asking the police force to take a voluntary 10 per cent cut.

Members of Delegation. Members of the business delegation were Lashly, Hawes, C. W. Gaylord, Samuel W. Fordyce, W. L. Hemingway, Ethan A. H. Shepley, F. B. Eisenman, Walter B. Weisenburger, L. Wade Chidress, Daniel E. Catlin, James W. Harris, Sidney Maestre, Paul Bakewell, Jr., Carter W. Atkins, C. H. Morrill, R. E. Blake, Tom K. Smith, Edgar M. Queney, A. T. Perkins, Ira Wright, S. R. De Kins and E. W. Mental.

At this afternoon's daily session of the Board of Aldermen, Alderman Neun announced that he would not "go along" with any plan to cut the lower-paid city employees by 10 per cent or any other percentage.

Referring to employees of the institutions, some of whom receive $45 to $60 a month and board, he said "nobody with brains" would suggest reducing their pay.

seem also to be a reason for not revealing his name. However, I may say that if any member of this or any other body is willing to take the responsibility for making that man's name public, the documentary evidence of his guilt is still in my possession, and is accessible to him."

With that terse declaration the gun-tipped Virginian took his seat. When his challenge was reported to Britten, the Chicago Representative said he had no further comment to make.

Martin Madden Defended. After Britten's speech in the House, Blanton of Texas got up and defended the reputation of the late Representative Martin Madden of Chicago, declaring that "no more honest man ever sat in the House." Britten also alluded to Madden's character.

As a matter of fact, it can be stated authoritatively that Madden was not the man to whom Glass alluded. The man to whom he alluded was not a Republican, and was not a member of the Illinois delegation. His name is known to many members of the House and Senate, and has been for years.

Norbeck Opposes Branch Banking. Chairman Norbeck of the Banking Committee in the Senate attacked the branch banking provisions of the Glass bill.

The Glass bill, as approved by Norbeck's committee, would permit branch banking in any state. Norbeck's opposition is based on his contention that the bill would ultimately destroy state banks. He assailed the Federal Reserve System, which he charged had failed

HOOVER VETOES BILL TO RESCIND TARIFF POWERS

Measure Would Have Shifted Control Over Flexible Provision From Him to Congress.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 11.—President Hoover today vetoed the Democratic tariff bill, which would have altered the flexible provision by removing from the chief executive to the Congress the power to change import duty rates.

The House this afternoon on a roll call vote on the veto failed to get the required two-thirds vote to override the veto. The measure originally was passed by the House 214 to 182.

The President announced his rejection of the measure in a message to the Democratic House, which originated the bill. The veto had been predicted even during the debate before the final passage of the bill.

The President's first objection was on the measure in the misimpression and uncertainty it may convey as to its purpose.

He contended that if the purpose of the act was to obtain lower tariffs on the 25 per cent of American imports not on the free list, "it would seem that the direct and simple method of so doing would be to recognize that tariffs are duties applied to particular commodities, and that reductions should be made on the particular commodities believed to be at fault."

"As a matter of fact," he asserted, "there never has been a time in the history of the United States when tariff protection was more essential to the welfare of the American people than at present. Prices have declined throughout the world but in this country they have not. In other countries than in the United States."

DENIES HAVING 'INSIDE TRACK' IN 56 POSTOFFICE LEASES

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 11.—Raymond D. Brown, Indianapolis, testified before a Senate committee today that a company he heads has leased 56 properties to the Post-office Department, but he denied he had an "inside track" in obtaining leases. Gross rental from the buildings leased to the Government for postal quarters by Brown's company is $934,000 a year.

Chairman Blaine of the Postal Lease Investigation Committee read a letter written by Edward N. Munro, a Detroit man interested in a postoffice bid, saying Brown had shown him personal letters from former Postmaster-General New and indicated he had influence in Washington.

The witness said Munro was a "liar." Brown told the committee he had been allowed to see certain confidential affidavits in the Post-office Department in connection with the dismissal of a postal employee in Chicago.

Postmaster-General Brown refusing to give the committee the same correspondence because it was "obtained under promise that the sources would not be divulged."

FISH TOWS TWO MEN TO SEA

Lighthouse Keeper Aids in Capture of 350-Pound Bass. SAN PEDRO, Cal., May 11.—A 350-pound sea bass towed a 15-foot motorboat containing two men three miles to sea in a zig-zag course yesterday and might have kept going had it not been for a lighthouse keeper and his tender. Andrew and Antonio Tutrone, brothers, hooked the big fish. Irving Konklin, lighthouse keeper, saw the erratic dash of the boat as the fishermen hung stubbornly to the line. Konklin and his tender went in pursuit, but three hours passed before he overtook the fishing craft. He helped the brothers pull in the bass.

WANTS R. F. C. LOANS TO CITIES

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Authority for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to lend to cities for unemployment relief is sought in a bill submitted by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York.

The loans would be made when the cities were unable to obtain funds from banks for reasonable terms and private or public funds failed to meet relief needs.

LEHMANN OPINION HOLDING BANK AFFILIATES ILLEGAL

Made Public by Senator Glass Who Says It Has Been Suppressed Because of Power of Wealth.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 11.—The hitherto unpublished opinion prepared by the late Frederick W. Lehmann in 1911 when he was Solicitor-General holding that national bank "affiliates" are illegal was made public today by Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, who charged in the Senate Monday that it had been "suppressed" because of the "power and blandishments of inordinate wealth."

The opinion, which Glass placed in the Congressional Record, was addressed to Attorney-General George W. Wickersham.

It dealt specifically with a New York bank and its affiliate, the names of which were eliminated by Glass in placing the matter in the Record.

Bank affiliates are corporations created to perform nonbanking functions, such as the marketing of securities.

The Glass banking reform bill now before the Senate calls for their "divorce" within three years, from enactment, the Virginia and others contending that the affiliates contributed to the inflation which preceded the 1929 crash.

The Lehmann opinion said in part: "You (the Attorney-General) advise me that the President desires that there shall be submitted to him . . . a fuller discussion of the question of the legality of the agreements and arrangements existing between the . . . Bank of New York and the . . . company, a corporation of the State of New York."

"On Aug. 1, 1911, I submitted to you an opinion, in which you concurred, that the agreements and arrangements in question were means of enabling the bank to carry on business and exercise powers prohibited to it by the National Banking Act."

"I have reconsidered the question with the care demanded by its importance and have reached the conclusion that both the bank and the company, whether considered as affiliated or as unrelated, are in violation of the law."

After reviewing at length the purposes of the national banking act, the opinion quoted the agreement drawn up between the bank and its affiliate as having said: "Opportunities and facilities for making desirable investments, other than those which are possible in the ordinary course of the banking business, are from time to time presented to the officers of the bank, which they desire to make available to the shareholders of the bank."

Not Within Banks' Scope. Lehmann, in his opinion, then observed: "Here is the declared purpose to do something, make investments, not within the scope of the bank's powers. That the officers and shareholders of the bank as individuals may make such investments is conceded, but that the bank, or its officers or shareholders, as officers and shareholders, may do so; in other words, that the powers and facilities granted by the national banking act may be used for purposes outside the ordinary course of banking business is denied."

It is not within the scope of the bank's powers to have part or lot in such an agreement for the simple reason that the formation of an investing company, under State corporation laws, is not the conduct of banking under national laws. And what is true of the bank is true of its officers and shareholders acting as such."

No Independence of Action. "That is not all. The company has no independence of action. It has no control or authority over its own affairs."

"If these institutions are twain in the substantial sense indicated, then the arrangement which places the control of the company so absolutely and irrevocably under trustees appointed by the bank and subject to change only by the corporate action of the bank offends the fundamental law that 'no servant can serve two masters.'"

"If, however, the mission of the bank and the mission of the company are alike . . . then the bank involved is . . . conducting business beyond its chartered powers. . . ."

"I am constrained to conclude that as to the bank the agreement violates the law, in its details, because it impairs and limits the right of transfer of shares and because it assumes to bind the bank beyond the possibility of release by the majority action of its shareholders and directors, and its general plan and scope because it embarks the bank in business and venture beyond its corporate powers. . . ."

"I conclude the . . . company in its holdings of national bank stocks is in usurpation of Federal authority and in violation of Federal law."

Senator Glass said yesterday in the Senate that although Lehmann's opinion was concurred in by the then Attorney-General Wickersham, "it was not acted on."

Senator Walcott (Rep.), Connecticut, told the Senate that "a very notable case of abuse of affiliates, is the Bank of United States, in New York, which crashed with great loss to depositors."

Fish Cargo Hides Whisky.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 11.—The fishing boat Caspian, with a cargo of mackerel for the Fulton Street Fish Market, was seized in the harbor today by customs agents who discovered 1000 cases of whisky valued at $50,000 secreted under the lead of fish. The whisky was in a false-bottom compartment, entrance to which was gained through a hatch concealed by a stove on which food was being cooked. Seven of the crew were arrested.

DRY CANDIDATES ARE DEFEATED IN OHIO PRIMARIES

David S. Ingalls Apparently Wins G. O. P. Nomination for Governor Over Powerful Opposition.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, O., May 11.—Gov. George White, Democrat, apparently will be opposed for re-election by David S. (Young Dave) Ingalls as the result of yesterday's primary.

Ingalls, World War hero and Assistant Secretary of the Navy, today was thought to have won the Republican nomination over long odds. Just 33 years old, he was ahead of former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper and Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, both with long-established political machines, and a fourth opponent, James J. Beatty, a salesman.

In 521 precincts out of 8701 in the State the vote in the Republican contest for Governor was: Brown, 249,884; Ingalls, 278,775.

Gov. White was far ahead of his one opponent.

Most of the candidates endorsed by the Anti-Saloon League apparently were defeated by wide margins.

Although there was no direct vote on the prohibition issue, the primary results were interpreted by anti-prohibition forces as indicating the sentiment in Ohio has turned toward the moist side.

Most of the wet-dry fight was on the Republican ticket. Ingalls, and Gilbert Bettman, the Ohio Attorney-General, who apparently was nominated for the Senate, campaigned on platforms for liquor law repeal. Their opponents were outspoken dries. In 6866 precincts out of 8701, Bettman was more than 50,000 ahead of his chief opponent, Louis J. Taber, National Master of the Grange.

Senator Robert J. Bulkley, a wet, was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for re-election. Gov. White favors a prohibition referendum.

Former State Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax of Bucyrus and Stephen M. Young, Cleveland, both advocates of prohibition repeal, won the Democratic Congress-at-large ticket, George H. Vander, Cleveland, former prohibition advocate in the State Senate.

CAMDEN, Ark., May 11.—A freight train of the Missouri Pacific Railroad was seized here by Arkansas authorities and held 24 hours because of the railway's failure to pay fines after conviction of violating the State's full-crew law. It was released today under a $10,000 surety bond.

ALLEGES BANKS, AS TRUSTEES, PAID THEMSELVES FIRST

Chicagoan Says They Failed to Declare Default, Existing Since 1930, on $5,228,000 Simmons' Notes.

BEGINS ACTION FOR RECEIVERSHIP

Asks Court to Remove First National Here and Chase of New York as Trustees.

Suit for a receiver for the Associated Simmons Hardware Companies and for removal of the First National Bank of St. Louis and the Chase National Bank of New York as trustees for holders of $5,228,000 in outstanding "gold notes" of the associated companies, was filed yesterday in Federal Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by the Chicagoan, who alleged that although the Simmons companies have defaulted in meeting the requirements of the trust indenture, the trustees have failed to declare the notes in default or to take any other action to protect the interests of their holders.

Block alleges the default has existed since Dec. 31, 1930, but the trustees failed to declare the notes in default because the associated companies were indebted to them for $400,000. The trustees acknowledged in the payment of this debt permitted the security of the notes to be impaired.

The notes are listed on the New York Curb market and were quoted yesterday at 22, selling on the basis of $20 for a $1000 note.

Protective Committee Formed. The trustees have not yet declared the notes in default. Block, although during April they had about forming a noteholders' protective committee. He asks that they be restrained from proceeding with this, and restrained from collecting further interest on the notes. The petition points out that the notes in denominations of $500 and $1000 were sold throughout the country to investors of moderate means, and that individual noteholders can do little to protect their own interests. "I must rely upon the good faith and integrity of those promulgating and determining re-organization plans."

"As a matter of practical fact," the petition continues, "noteholders have no recourse independent of protection of their interests by the bank trustees or the courts." If the bank trustees are permitted, by repeated solicitation of noteholders, to secure the deposit of a substantial number of bonds with the protective committee, the petition says, "noteholders must either deposit their notes when called upon to do so, or be frozen out by a nominal bid at foreclosure sale."

The bank trustees, Block alleges, have demonstrated their unwillingness to act for bondholders by "gross neglect and non-compliance with duties expressly imposed upon them, and for that reason he asks that they be removed and restrained from organizing a protective committee."

The Associated Simmons Hardware Companies is a holding company organized as a voluntary trust, and when the "gold notes" were issued in 1923 it controlled 22 operating units. Voluntary liquidation of operating units, Block's petition states, has reduced the number now active business to three. These are the Simmons Hardware Co. of St. Louis, the Mount City Paint & Color Co. of St. Louis, and the Simmons Hardware Co. of Philadelphia.

The "gold notes" were issued under a trust indenture executed June 1, 1927. Originally the issue was $10,000,000, but this has been reduced to the present $5,228,000, which mature July 1, 1933. They are secured by capital stock of the operating units, deposited with the holding company.

Attacks Methods. The trust indenture provided that the aggregate quick assets of the holding company and its controlled concerns should at all times be equal to one-and-one-fourth times the aggregate principal of outstanding notes, and current liabilities of the companies.

This provision, Block alleges, has not been complied with since at least Dec. 31, 1930, when there were $1,189,500 in notes outstanding and current liabilities of $1,747,748, so that quick assets should have been $1,211,498. The quick assets, however, were only $1,078,352, his petition states, so that the parent company failed by $1,333,446 to meet the requirements of the trust indenture.

During 1931, Block alleges, the associated companies sustained an operating loss of $1,923,555, before deducting interest on the notes. There were then $5,228,000 in notes outstanding and current liabilities were $457,420, a total of $5,685,420. Quick assets, his petition states, were but $4,574,555.

While the companies at the end of 1930 did not meet the "one-and-one-quarter" provision of the trust indenture, his petition points out, they did have sufficient quick assets to meet the obligations of notes and current liabilities dollar for dollar. At the end of 1931,

ALLEGES BANKS, AS TRUSTEES, PAID THEMSELVES FIRST

Chicagoan Says They Failed to Declare Default, Existing Since 1930, on $5,228,000 Simmons' Notes.

BEGINS ACTION FOR RECEIVERSHIP

Asks Court to Remove First National Here and Chase of New York as Trustees.

Suit for a receiver for the Associated Simmons Hardware Companies, and for removal of the First National Bank of New York and the Chase National Bank of New York as trustees for holders of $5,228,000 in outstanding "gold notes" of the associated companies, was filed yesterday in Circuit Court.

Joseph Block of Chicago, holder of a $500 note, filed the suit, alleging that although the Simmons companies have defaulted in meeting the requirements of the trust agreement, the trustees have failed to declare the notes in default or take other action to protect the interests of their holders.

The block alleges the default has existed since Dec. 31, 1930, but the trustees failed to declare the notes in default because the associated companies were indebted to them for their banking facilities to the amount of $400,000. The trustees agreed in the payment of this debt, it is alleged, and to that extent permitted the security of the notes to be impaired.

The notes are listed on the New York Curb market, and Block alleges that he is selling on the basis of $250 for a $500 note.

Protective Committee Formed.

The trustees have not yet declared the notes in default, Block alleges, although during April they agreed to form a protective committee. He asks that the court restrain them from proceeding with this, and restrained from collecting further fees as trustees.

The petition points out that the notes in denominations of $500 and $1,000 are being sold throughout the country to investors of moderate means, and that individual noteholders can do little to protect their own interests, "but must rely upon the good faith and integrity of the trustees in managing and determining the organization plans."

"As a matter of practical fact," the petition continues, "noteholders have no recourse independent of protection of their interests by the trustees or the courts." If the trustees are permitted, by repeated solicitation of noteholders, to secure the deposit of a substantial number of bonds with their protective committee, the petition alleges, "noteholders must either deposit their notes when called upon to do so, or be frozen out by a financial bid at foreclosure sale."

Wants Trustees Removed.

The bank trustees, Block alleges, have demonstrated their unfitness to act as trustees for the notes. "They are non-compliance with their duties expressly imposed upon them, and for that reason, he asks that they be removed and replaced by an independent protective committee."

The Associated Simmons Hardware Companies is a holding company organized as a voluntary trust, and when the "gold notes" were issued in 1925 it controlled 25 operating units. Voluntary liquidation of operating units, Block's petition states, has reduced the number now to three. These are the Simmons Hardware Co. of St. Louis, the Mound City Paint & Oil Co. of St. Louis, and the Simmons Hardware Co. of Philadelphia.

The "gold notes" were issued under a trust indenture executed June 4, 1925. Originally the issue was $10,000,000, but this has been reduced to the present $5,228,000, which matured July 1, 1932. They were secured by capital stock of the operating units, deposited with the trustee company.

Attacks Methods.

The trust indenture provided that the trustee company should have a quick assets of the operating units, and its controlled assets should at all times be equal to one-and-one-fourth times the aggregate principal of outstanding notes and current liabilities of the companies.

This provision, Block alleges, has not been complied with since at least Dec. 31, 1930, when there were $2,159,500 in notes outstanding and current liabilities of $1,419,400, so that quick assets had been $8,211,600. The trustee company, however, was only $1,241,240 to meet the requirements of the trust indenture.

During 1931, Block alleges, the trustee companies sustained an operating loss of $1,922,555, before deducting interest on the notes. There were then $5,228,000 in notes outstanding and current liabilities of $1,419,400, a total of $6,647,400. Quick assets, his petition states, were only $4,576,656.

Block asks the court to remove the companies at the end of the not meet the "one-and-one-fourth" provision of the trust indenture, his petition points out, they did have sufficient quick assets to meet the obligations of the trust, and current liabilities dollar for dollar. At the end of 1931,

Victims Are Witnesses Against Alleged Kidnapers in Chicago

DR. AND MRS. MAX GECHT.

A FORMER Assistant State's Attorney, Ward C. Stalwell, and three others are on trial in Chicago charged with the kidnapping for ransom of Mrs. Gecht, wife of a Chicago physician, and the State is seeking the death penalty for leaders of the plot. Mrs. Gecht was kidnapped with her husband last Dec. 11 and held while the doctor was released to secure ransom. However, one of her captors became smitten with her, and after she was released sought to make a date. She kept the appointment and led the man into a police trap. Dr. Gecht says he paid $2000 to obtain his wife's release. Stalwell is alleged to have been the go-between.

however, they were unable, Block alleges, to do this. He says $1,109,863. Stated differently, they had $9 cents in quick assets to meet each dollar of obligations in notes and current liabilities.

This condition was brought about, it is alleged, by the liquidation of operating units to pay the $400,000 debt. The bank trustees and their affiliates, and the companies, with the consent of the trustees, using about $500,000 of the proceeds of liquidation to buy back their securities on the open market.

Calls for Accounting.

In addition to the appointment of receivers and removal of the trustees, Block asks that the trust indenture be foreclosed, and its assets sold for the benefit of noteholders.

He also seeks an accounting of the transactions of the Chase National Bank and the First National Bank as trustees and an order that any amount that may be found due from them should be paid into Court.

The petition, filed by the law firm of Burnett & Stern, names as defendants the Associated Simmons Hardware Companies, the First National Bank, the Chase National Bank, and the trustees for the associated companies, Roy H. Goddard, Louis K. Liggett, Charles S. Sargent, Hillman Taylor, C. D. Smiley Jr. and Leigh B. Liggett.

Smiley, president of the Simmons Hardware Co. of St. Louis and one of the trustees for the associated companies, declined to comment on Block's suit.

Declares Suit Without Merit.

R. R. Clabaugh, vice president of First National Co., investment in Block's suit, Clabaugh said, said the suit was without merit. He believed the Simmons companies did not owe any money to First National Bank last year, he said, but added that if they did, it was proper to pay the money when due, as the notes were not due and not in default.

The protective committee, Clabaugh said, was being formed by the trustees, but by the investment houses which sold the bonds. He is a member, and the chairman is Robert W. Clarkson, president of Chase Securities Corporation, investment affiliate of Chase National Bank.

The trust indenture does not permit the trustees to declare a default on the grounds outlined in Block's suit, Clabaugh said, unless the trustees are requested to do so by 25 per cent of the noteholders.

TWO CHILDREN HURT BY AUTOS

Lowell Sutton, 3 years old, 2824 Henrietta street, ran across the street in front of his home yesterday and into the side of an automobile, suffering a fractured arm.

Ira Lynn, 4 years old, 1441 South Eighteenth street, suffered a skull injury when hit by an automobile while crossing the street in front of his home yesterday.

Principal stockholders of the Wellston Kennel Club, besides O'Hare and O'Neil, are Mrs. Martin Hyland, widow of the founder of the Madison Kennel Club, and Mrs. O. P. Smith, Chicago, widow of the inventor of the mechanical rabbit used on the dog tracks.

Harred in 1928.

The Wellston Kennel Club closed in 1928 while an ouster suit brought by the Attorney-General was pending against it. Subsequent injunctions were issued forbidding operation of the Ramona and Silver Heels Kennel Clubs in St. Louis County, but no injunction was issued against the Wellston organization, since it had already closed. However, when the decision to close was reached, the owners were already operating the Madison Club, across the river.

LINDBERGH AID SEEKS KIDNAPERS IN NEW QUARTER

John H. Curtis Reported to Be Attempting to Make Contact Off Rhode Island Coast.

By the Associated Press.

WATERLOO, Va., May 11.—With a new scene of activities off the Rhode Island coast reported for his negotiations, John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk intermediary in the Lindbergh kidnapping case, was still absent today on a secret trip undertaken last week. The Virginian-Pilot said today it had learned that the negotiations were now being conducted off Block Island lying east of Long Island.

The reported shift in the activities came after repeated cruises out to sea from Norfolk had apparently failed in forming contact. Last week Curtis and Lieut. George L. Richard, naval air pilot, left the naval air base here on a secret mission.

On his trip northward, the Virginian-Pilot said, Curtis was taken to a point at sea, where he went aboard a boat containing representatives of the kidnapers. The paper said Col. Charles A. Lindbergh left the naval base here a day later.

No information concerning his work during the last five days has been divulged by Curtis' associates. Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, and the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Pescocock, Admiral Burrage has consistently refused to make any comment, while the clergyman said he has received no word from Curtis.

COTTAGE CARRIED HALF MILE BY WATERSPOUT AND WRECKED

Owner of Building Near Huron, O., Says It Was Driven on Beach.

SANDUSKY, O., May 11.—A waterspout which came in from Lake Erie picked up a cottage east of Huron, O., today and carried it half a mile over the lake, according to its owner, Robert Breckenridge of Sandusky.

He said the cottage, situated on a point jutting out into the lake, was carried to Cheska Beach, another projecting point, where it was dropped and wrecked. No one was in the cottage and no other damage was done.

Several years ago a number of waterspouts were seen off Put-In-Bay in Lake Erie, but did no damage.

NEW ZEALAND POLICE CHARGE CROWD OF 2000; 30 INJURED

Clubs Used on Unemployed After Order to Disperse Brings Sticks and Stones.

WELLINGTON, N. Z., May 11.—Ten men were sent to the hospital and 20 others were less seriously hurt today when police, swinging their clubs, broke up a demonstration by 2000 unemployed.

The crowd grew unruly during a harangue from a soap box. When police ordered them to disperse they threw sticks and stones and the police charged.

Yesterday a disorderly crowd stoned the Parliament building and the stores around the square, breaking 150 windows and looting some of the shops.

TWO WOMEN WIN IN PRIMARY

Judge Florence Allen, Democratic Nominee for Congress.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., May 11.—Judge Florence E. Allen of the Ohio Supreme Court was nominated by the Democrats of the Twenty-second (Cleveland) Congressional District in Tuesday's balloting. She will oppose Congressman Chester C. Bolton (Rep.), Cleveland, in November. Both are pledged to a program for change in the national prohibition laws.

Judge Allen is the second woman to win a congressional nomination in the Ohio primary. Mrs. Edith McClure Patterson of Dayton was selected by the Third Ohio District to oppose Congressman Byron B. Harlan of Dayton next November.

RICHARDS NAMED BEFORE KIDNAPING, WITNESS ASSERTS

phoned Richards and by appointment met him at a bench in Fairground Park not far from Grand boulevard, that they sat on the bench together and had a talk.

He will testify that the discussion was about the ransom and how it was to be paid, that Richards said he already had part of the money and would have the rest on the following day (Nov. 11).

"His testimony" will show further that they arranged for the payment of the ransom in $10 and $20 bills, and that plans were made as to how and when the money was to be paid to Medlock.

"We shall show further that when the meeting ended Richards remarked that if any of the kidnapers got into trouble over the abduction he would represent them."

As in previous trials Miller gave a painstaking and thorough account of the kidnapping, beginning with the seizure of Berg on Lindell boulevard just west of Euclid avenue, the night of Nov. 6, and his release Nov. 10 a few minutes before midnight on promise of $50,000 ransom, which was not paid.

Berg, as the first State's witness, repeated the story of his kidnapping, his captivity of more than four days in the abductors' Easton avenue flat, and his release at Kennerly and Hamilton avenues.

He was cross-examined for 35 minutes by Verne Lacy, defense counsel, who failed to shake him in any detail of his story. At the conclusion of his testimony at 1:15 p.m. court was recessed for luncheon.

Berg was the only witness during the morning session.

Chauffeur Pike Testifies.

The first witness of the afternoon session was Albert Pike, Negro chauffeur employed by Berg, who related the circumstances of the kidnapping up to the point where he and Berg were separated.

As Pike returned to report the abduction of his employer, Pike was followed on the stand by Ben Harris of 9 Kingsbury place, a friend of Berg, who told of receiving Pike's report of the abduction.

Selection of the jury, begun Monday morning, was completed at 5:15 p. m. yesterday when the 12 men on the trial panel were locked up for the night after they had been sworn by Judge Peasey.

Following are the members of the jury:

Paul E. Archer, meat cutter, 6315 Virginia avenue.

Edmer J. Bussick, machinist, 4327 Do Soto avenue.

Robert S. Chaudet, secretary General Brake Service, 606 Hamilton avenue.

John L. Daly, confectioner, 3613A Alberta avenue.

Leo Keill, shoe cutter, 2015 Miami street.

Louis J. Fillo, commission merchant, 4943 Cote Brillante avenue.

Samuel Fixman, dealer in women's wear, 1600 South Broadway.

Walter P. Gummerhelmer, jewelry salesman, 1210A Iowa avenue.

Frank J. Ray, vice president St. Louis Pottery and Manufacturing Co., 4917 Quincy street.

Edward A. Reilly, salesman, 2651 Armand place.

Joe F. Wettring, baker, 907 South Boyle avenue.

Fred Wohltmann, draftsman, 3701 South Jefferson avenue.

ELECTION OF MISSOURI G. A. R.

The Rev. A. M. Reynolds, St. Joseph, Named Commander.

By the Associated Press.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., May 11.—Preparing to close its annual convention, the Grand Army of the Republic of Missouri today elected officers and selected Jefferson City for the 1933 meeting. The question of selecting Jefferson City as a permanent meeting place was deferred until next year.

The Rev. A. M. Reynolds, St. Joseph, was elected State commander. J. W. Laney, St. Louis, was named chaplain.

Finds Shotgun in Flat.

Otto Schultz, 1215 North Market street, turned over to police yesterday a sawed off double barreled shotgun and two single barreled shotguns which he reported his wife found under a bathtub on the second floor, which they formerly leased. The former occupants of that floor, two men and a woman, were arrested May 8, last, when a rifle and burglary tools were found in their automobile.

INQUIRY IN STORY SPECULATORS HID KREUGER SUICIDE

Stockholm Investigators Look Into Report That They Did So in Order to Unload Stocks.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 11.—Agents investigating the complicated affairs of the late Ivar Kreuger disclosed today that they are looking into the possibility that there were persons who knew that the match king had committed suicide in Paris out with the information long enough to unload their Kreuger stocks in the markets of the world.

It was said that possibly there was some such dumping in New York, but in the short Saturday session on the day of Kreuger's death only 10,000 Kreuger shares were sold on the Stockholm market.

Police thought it unlikely the seller could have known of the suicide.

Kreuger's Housekeeper Questioned in New York Bankruptcy Hearing.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Miss Hilda Aberg, for some years employed as housekeeper for Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king, testified today at a bankruptcy hearing of the International Match Co., but denied generally any knowledge of Kreuger's business affairs.

"I am simply a domestic employee," Miss Aberg told Oscar W. Ehrhorn, referee in bankruptcy.

The housekeeper told of the Swedish financier's last visit to New York, during which he was ill for two weeks. It was after this visit that he committed suicide in his Paris apartment.

She said Kreuger often telephoned to Europe and that most of these calls were made at night.

"Mr. Kreuger asked me to buy him an alarm clock, so he could get up in the night and call Europe," she said.

Asked concerning her stock holdings in Kreuger & Toll, Miss Aberg said she bought 10 shares from a broker in the St. Regis Hotel. She denied discussing finances with Kreuger except on one occasion.

"I once asked him how Kreuger & Toll stock was," she testified, "and he said, 'It is good but you don't know what the stock market is going to do to it.'"

Durant of the Higginson firm testified that $150,000,000 in International Match Co. stock had been sold in this country and that the gross profit to his firm was $6,305,000. He could not estimate the net profit because 600 other

HELENE COSTELLO WINS DIVORCE DECREE

Says Lowell Sherman, Actor, Who Also Sued, Gave Her Inferiority Complex.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—Helene Costello, a star before her marriage but inactive in the movies since then, obtained a divorce yesterday from Lowell Sherman, actor. She said Sherman told her she was his "mental inferior." They were married in March, 1929.

Superior Judge Thomas Ambrose granted the divorce on her complaint. She testified less than three minutes, and had only one supporting witness, Mrs. J. Walter Ruben.

"He always acted in a very superior manner," Miss Costello said, "and this caused me to suffer an inferiority complex. It made me very nervous."

Mrs. Ruben said Sherman "was very opinionated, and it gave Miss Costello an inferiority complex."

Miss Costello charged cruelty. She said Sherman treated her inhumanly, nagged at her housekeeping and told her she was unfit as companion for one of his intellectual attainments.

Sherman, in his complaint, also charged cruelty, declaring Miss Costello had hit him with a whip, struck his mother, drank to excess and kept a library of "filthy and erotic" literature.

A property settlement was effected before the divorce proceedings were begun.

SENATORS GET TO WORK ON OMNIBUS BILL TO SAVE $300,000,000

The situation with members of the special House Economy Committee—Chairman McDuffie, Representatives Ramseyer (Rep.), Iowa; Douglas (Dem.), Arizona; and Cochran (Dem.), Missouri.

"We will go as far as we possibly can in making economies," said Jones. And McKellar, author of the proposals for 10 per cent cuts in the appropriation bills, predicted, "we will make savings of between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 in this Congress."

Finance Committee Reports Tax Bill and Defends Rates.

The Senate Finance Committee, in its report on the billion dollar revenue bill submitted today in the Senate, declared the measure must be accompanied by $250,000,000 in savings to balance the budget next year.

The committee unanimously fa-voiced balancing the budget next year, pointing to deficits of the last three years.

Defending the numerous increases in rates and the new levies provided by the bill, the report asked the nation to consider the benefits of a sound Government fiscal policy.

"Our committee appreciates," said the report, "that the industries selected, in common with all other industries, have been and are seriously affected by the depression and consequent decreases in business activity and profits."

"It is realized that additional burdens at this time may seem unjustifiable and almost insurmountable."

"It is not believed, however, that taxes at the rates proposed by the bill as reported by your committee impose undue burdens upon industry and commerce or will seriously retard a return to normal business conditions."

"The required revenues must be raised."

"Benefits to be derived from the re-establishment of Federal finances upon an unquestionably sound basis far surpass any possible disadvantages from the burden of additional taxes."

On Balancing the Budget.

"It has been suggested that no effort should be made to balance the budget in one year, that the process of balancing the budget should be extended over a period of years and that the intervening deficits should be met by borrowing."

"Although frequently misunderstood, this is substantially the policy adopted by the House of Representatives and approved by your committee. Last year's deficit was met by borrowing. This year's deficit has been, or will be, met by borrowing."

"We would, by this bill, bring our budget back into balance in the third year—that is, in 1933—and even then without covering requirements for statutory debt retirements in the amount of $437,000,000."

Defending the lowered exemptions on the admissions tax, the committee report said that, "in the existing emergency, a tax of 3 cents on a 20-cent admission or a tax of 3 cents on a 30-cent admission would not seem to constitute unduly burdensome contributions to the support of the Federal Government."

It was estimated that the measure as revised would increase revenues by $1,010,000,000 in 1932. An appeal from the Southern Pine Manufacturers' Association for support for the lumber import duty was laid before the Senate by Senator Fletcher (Dem.), Florida. It says "thousands of families are undergoing privation" because of curtailment of lumber production due to competition from Canada and Russia.

The Finance Committee voted to substitute for a tax on rubber imports in the revenue bill manufacturers' excise levies of 3 cents a pound on tire casings and 5 cents a pound on inner tubes. The 5 cents a pound import duty on rubber was knocked out of the bill after a special hearing granted to representatives of the rubber industry. No other changes in the tax measure will be made by the committee.

Cochran Tells Critics to Get Behind Move for Beer.
Representative Cochran (Dem.), Missouri, told critics of the House voice on the economy bill today that, instead of criticizing, they should get behind the move to legalize and tax beer, raising $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 for the Federal Treasury.

To Walter Weisenberger, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and Elmer Donnell, secretary of the Associated Industries of Missouri, Cochran sent a telegram saying letters were reaching members of Congress from business men throughout the country regarding the balancing of the budget and in many instances criticizing Congress for failure to pass the economy bill as reported. "While all criticize," he said, "not one in a hundred offers any constructive suggestion to meet the situation."

"Senators Bingham and Tydings will move in the Senate to place a tax on and legalize the manufacture and sale of beer in states where the laws of the states so permit. Such a tax will produce $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 in revenue and will enable the Senate to eliminate many obnoxious features of the pending tax bill."

"Here's your opportunity. If you will take the lead and have your national organization lay down a barrage similar to the one just instituted, this time demanding that the President legalize the manufacture of beer and place a tax thereon, you might be doing something to meet the situation you complain of."

Joe E. Brown, Comedian, III, HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 11.—

Joe E. Brown, movie comedian, is a patient in a hospital here as the result of a breakdown and for treatment of an old injury to his back. He probably will be in the hospital about three weeks.

Means' counsel. This company, Rover said, arranged bond for nine men in the Brooklyn district and the men disappeared. Rover said judgment had been leveled for the $47,000 bail against the bonding company but that it remained uncollected.

Meanwhile, Representative Fish of New York disclosed today in an interview that it was Means who two years ago turned over to him indirectly a "fake warehouse receipt" which led to a futile search for alleged Soviet documents in Baltimore.

Fish, who was chairman of a special Communist-Investigating Committee of the House, said it was the receipt which led him to go to a Baltimore warehouse in quest of "20 trucks of so-called secret Communist papers."

Means was never employed by the committee, but Fish said the visit to the warehouse followed a conference in which Means produced the warehouse receipt, turned it over to a lawyer who in turn gave it to Fish.

The Representative said Means had been working for the National Civic Federation of New York and that some individuals connected with this organization apparently believed his story that communist documents had been collected in Mexico and brought into the United States. When Fish arrived at the warehouse, he said, he found "nothing at all."

The Representative said he had no knowledge of whether Means had collected funds from the organization.

CLARIDGE HOTEL FREE FROM RECEIVERSHIP

Judge Norton Directs Return of Property to Company—Mortgage Extended.

The receivership, against the Claridge Hotel, at Eighteenth and Locust streets, was ended today by Circuit Judge Norton, who directed that the property be turned back to the Claridge Hotel Co., defendant.

Action was taken on motion of Oliver T. Remmers and Charles F. Levy, receivers, who said favorable arrangements have been made with bondholders and other creditors and therefore there was no necessity of continuing the receivership, which began Dec. 14 on application of the Hub Furniture Co., a creditor.

Receivers had been appointed by Circuit Judge Roskopf, with consent of the hotel company. Levy is president of the furniture and hotel corporations. Remmers is an attorney and president of the Board of Election Commissioners.

A report by the receivers sets forth that most of the owners of the $350,000 first mortgage bonds against the hotel have agreed to a five-year extension. Another agreement has been made providing for payment of claims of unsecured creditors, while holders of second mortgage bonds have received their interest.

Since the receivers took charge, net cash receipts up to April 20 were $119,325, from which was deducted $6626 cash advanced to guests and $1207 in bad checks. After disbursements there was a balance on hand of $23,563.

By agreement Remmers was allowed $4000 for his services; Jacob M. Lashly $5000 as counsel for the receivers, and the firm of Holland, Lashly & Donnell $1500 as counsel for plaintiff.

COWS PRODUCING LESS MILK

Output 7 Pct. Under Average Five Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 11.—Reports to the Agriculture Department give the production of milk per cow as 7 per cent lower on

May 1 than the average for that date during the last five years. The number of cows on farms is 3 or 4 per cent more than a year ago. The reasons given for less milk included: Reduced grain feeding because of unfavorable price conditions; abnormally poor pastures and an acute scarcity of feed in northwestern states where drought struck again last year. Hens in farm flocks, the department said, also were laying slightly fewer eggs on May 1 as compared with a year ago. The total production of eggs per farm flock was about 2 per cent smaller. The number of hens also was less.

EDUCATION BOARD DECIDES TO DROP SUMMER SCHOOLS

Only Instruction for Handicapped Children Is to Be Offered for a Short Period.

Decision was made by the Board of Education last night to abandon summer schools this year, with certain exceptions, to save about $200,000.

It was decided also to close evening schools, with one minor exception, on May 21 instead of June 2. Economy and efforts to balance the school budget were principal factors in the board's monthly meeting.

Summer instruction will be provided only in 17 special institutions for handicapped children, in a term limited to five weeks of five days each. The current regular school term will end June 17.

Unlike the city, the Board of Education must balance its budget, as the law prohibits it from having a deficit. Its fiscal year will start July 1. A statement was made by the board's Finance Committee last night, pointing out that essential educational work would not be curtailed, but that "pet hobbies" must receive drastic treatment. It said:

"The Finance Committee, in conference with other members of the board, has been very carefully discussing the budget for the coming fiscal year. We have been making every effort to secure an intelligent estimate of what our income will be. These figures are not yet available, but the board, in making up its budget, has set upon the policy of balancing the budget with its income, regardless of how it may depreciate in comparison with previous years.

"Pet Hobbies Sacrificed.
"In the balancing of its budget, the board recognizes the fact that many pet hobbies will receive rather drastic treatment, but we have executives whom we believe competent to point out to this board the essentials required to maintain the standards of the schools, and they shall be retained and the non-essentials will necessarily be eliminated.

"The Finance Committee has invited the officials of various organizations, and among them Director Atkins of the Bureau of Municipal Research, to appear before it. We have discussed frankly our policy with them, for the purpose of gathering all the information available to assist us in preparing an intelligent budget for our July meeting.

"We recognize first the interest of the public in what we are doing. Second, our efforts to gather information from every source to assist us in coming to an analysis of what we are to receive. Third, the determination to keep our expenditures within our income, and notwithstanding rumors to the contrary, we are not going to spend more than we receive."

To Continue Teachers' Colleges.
The board is not considering abandonment of Harris and Stowe teachers' colleges. It made this declaration in approving a recommendation of the Instruction Committee as to replies to 33 organizations and individuals protesting the possible closing of these schools. However, the board said the practice of economy in their operation is imperative. General Junior college departments in the colleges may be closed in the next scholastic year, but this has not been determined. The Real Estate Exchange has been urging abolition of the teachers' colleges.

Annual contracts for supplies, approved last night, aggregate about $117,000, compared with $249,000 last year. Officials said 85 per cent of the decrease represented a lowered volume and 15 per cent lowered prices. It was reported that the Auditing and Supplies Committee had rejected, unopened, all bids for 32,379 tons of coal. The main reason, the committee said, was non-settlement of the miners' wage scale now being negotiated. As soon as "practical" new bids for soft coal to be delivered from cars or bins in the city will be solicited.

Playgrounds to Operate.
Operation of summer playgrounds was approved. Reductions were made in the number of administrative employees and their pay, to save about $18 a day. The playgrounds will be directed by Rodowa H. Abeken, a lawyer and the board's supervisor of recreation, at $21 a day.

The divisions of personnel and of school and community relations, which have been inactive under Supt. Gerling, were abolished. The position of half-day assistant for all types of schools, at $1000 a year, was created. Gerling recommended this as an economy measure and in view of the success of such a position in the National Association of Public School Business Officials in Los Angeles, May 23. Last night it authorized the other nine board members to attend, if they choose, at a cost to the board of not more than $200 each. It was said two members not on the committee desired to make the trip.

DETROIT, Mich., May 11.—Notice was filed in Federal court today of a suit for $1,000,000 against Lawrence P. Fisher, president of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., on behalf of the Howard Young Galleries, Inc., of New York.

A. M. Frumberg, New York attorney, in announcing the action, said the Young Galleries sold to Fisher "some of the finest masterpieces in the world, representing the outstanding work" of famous artists. The action, he said, is for the balance of an account on the purchase of the paintings sold to Fisher. The Fisher Gallery is valued at more than $2,000,000.

ship proceedings were instituted here late yesterday in United States District Court against the Federal Public Service Corporation of Delaware, a public utility company, and its bondholder. The court proceedings were started shortly after similar action in the Federal and state courts in Wilmington, Del., on behalf of State of Delaware, Teller, lawyer, who filed the suit, said action was taken both here and in Wilmington because the corporation is a joint venture and it was felt that receivers would be necessary in both places. The Chicago action, he said, is not a move to remove jurisdiction. In the Chicago case, he said, the stock of Federal Public Service Corporation is alleged in the bill to be controlled by the Union Power Corporation and H. M. Byrnes Co., public utility concern.

LABORERS' FIGHT ON MACHINE CONTINUES

Columbia, Mo., Group Names Committee to Confer With Utility Officers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
COLUMBIA, Mo., May 11.—Unemployed members of the Union Laborer's local here voted last night to remain firm in their demand that hand labor instead of a trench excavator be used in the digging of a ditch to bring natural gas to Columbia, and to accept not less than 25 cents an hour, their adopted wage scale.

The laborers, holding their second meeting in two nights, obtained an agreement from R. H. Fulton of Booneville, vice president of the Lahar Construction Co., that he would not try to resume work today with the excavator, as he had announced.

Work on the ditch was stopped Monday by the laborers led by Jack Hill, their union representative. A committee will be chosen to confer with officers of the Missouri Utilities Co. of St. Louis and the contractor to bring about a satisfactory settlement. A. R. Troxell, Columbia lawyer, was employed by the labor organization to conduct negotiations.

More than 150 laborers, one-third of the number being Negroes, attended last night's meeting. Troxell said the dispute arose from a "misunderstanding" between the union and C. S. Cleveland, local manager for the company, who labor leaders assert promised that the ditch would be dug by hand labor. Cleveland says "he made no such agreement."

The utility officers informed him, Troxell said, they did not know Fulton intended to use an excavator until its appearance on the job. He said he had been assured that the Lahar Construction Co. was not a subsidiary operated by the utility in order to insure low price contract work and keep out local contractors.

Fulton has stated that he figured the trench excavation, 5400 feet long, on a 30-cents-an-hour basis and could not pay more.

Other speakers at the meeting said that organized workmen of Columbia had supported a campaign which resulted in permission for the Missouri Utility Co. to sell natural gas to Columbia, and as prospective consumers they expect a fair share of the money spent in making the change from manufacture to natural gas.

In a unanimous vote the meeting disapproved of any acts of violence in obtaining an agreement.

WOMAN, DAUGHTER INDICTED FOR KILLING OF TEXAS RANCHER
Former Says She Hit Man With Ax After He Tried to Attack Child.

By the Associated Press.
MATADOR, Tex., May 11.—Mrs. Ruth McComas, divorcee, and her daughter were indicted here yesterday for the killing of J. A. Cunningham, wealthy Motley County rancher.

Mrs. McComas, 31, free on $10,000 bail, and Edith, 12, the daughter, are expected here soon from the home of their parents and grandparents at Graham, Tex.

Cunningham's head was crushed with an ax the morning of April 22 at his home. Mrs. McComas, his housekeeper, and her daughter surrendered to officers. It first was reported that the daughter killed Cunningham when he attempted a criminal assault. After additional questioning by District Attorney A. J. Foley, the mother declared she took Cunningham's life after an attempted assault on the child.

TWO CHILDREN THREATENED BY CHICAGO EXTORTIONIST
One Note Sent on Day After Funeral of Their Father, Killed in Plane Crash.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 11.—An extortionist who threatened injury to the two small sons of Mrs. Greenwood Hart Fargo, daughter of Francis Russell Hart, Boston, unless she paid $1000, is sought by police and private detectives. Hart is vice chairman of the directorate of the Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston.

Threats to injure the children, Charles H. Jr., 6 years old, and Bronson, 3, were made in notes, one of which was sent to Mrs. Fargo on May 2, the day after the funeral of her husband, Lieut. Charles H. Fargo, one of two Army Reserve Air Corps officers killed when an airplane fell into a house on Chicago's South Side. The note was signed "We."

SERVICE BOARD DROPS PLAN TO REPAVE PAGE BOULEVARD
Pct. of Property Owners Object to Special Taxes for Payment for Work.

The proposed repaving of Page Boulevard from Belt avenue to the city limits was dropped by the Board of Public Service yesterday after a reconsideration vote after 50 per cent of the property owners had objected to payment of the special taxes, amounting to $152,000.

The board had voted to send the measure to the Board of Aldermen, regardless of the objection, but were told by Aldermen that they would oppose the proposed ordinance. Objection by the property owners was based on the contention the street is a main thoroughfare and most of the damage to the pavement had been caused by buses.

11 OF THE JURY AGAINST RETRIAL OF BORDLEY SUIT

Affidavits of Men Who Signed Verdict Setting Aside $1,000,000 Will Are Filed in Court.

Affidavits of 11 jurors who signed a verdict setting aside Mrs. Bordley's $1,000,000 will were filed in Circuit Judge Rutledge's court yesterday in opposition to a motion for a new trial.

The affidavits were obtained by the law firm of Foristel, Mudd, Blair & Habenicht, whose representatives saw the jurors after the motion for a new trial was filed April 13. The law firm conducted the will contest for Mrs. Bordley's 86-year-old sister, Mrs. Adele L. Tatum, Los Angeles, Cal.

The defendants, who are asking for a new trial, are the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., executor under the will, and beneficiaries who received about $300,000. The motion for a new trial had charged Judge Rutledge with showing favoritism to Mrs. Tatum's attorneys and alleged the jurors felt bound to follow his wishes because he had permitted them to serve for more than a month at regular pay. A majority of the jurors were unemployed.

Reply in the Affidavit.

The affidavit of George H. Jaromack, 4567 San Francisco avenue, foreman of the jury, terms the charges against Judge Rutledge as "unfair and unjust" and points out that counsel for both sides were aware of unemployed men in the jury panel. Jaromack states the jury's verdict was purely on the evidence. The jurors said at the time of the verdict that they had set aside the will on evidence of undue influence by the Mercantile-Commerce Bank rather than because of a charge of unsound mind made against Mrs. Bordley.

The 10 other jurors who concurred with Jaromack's affidavit are Henry Richer, 4025 Miami street; Anton J. Kahle, 2409 South Tenth street; Frank A. Sues, 1212A St. Louis avenue; John M. Grady, 5015 St. Louis avenue; James A. Hamilton, 2207 North Ninth street; Henry O. Hohlman, 4734 Greer avenue; Earl Ebner, 419 (West) Koelin avenue; William E. Ruhland, 2422 North Ninth street; John Mall, 1124 Kentucky avenue, and Elmer Arisman, 4239A (West) Evans avenue. One juror, Herman Ficker, 2411 South Eleventh street, did not sign the verdict or make an affidavit.

In answer to the charge in the motion for a new trial that Judge Rutledge showed "every courtesy and consideration and all patience possible" to the Foristel firm and "little or no consideration" to the firm of Thompson, Mitchell, Thomson & Young, who represented the defendants, the motion in opposition says the charges were unfounded and were made because of the "sting of defeat."

Cites Compliment for Court.

"Counsel for the defense in its closing argument complimented the Court and jury on the great attention, consideration and fairness given the defendants in the trial," the opposition motion states.

The motion also charges Thompson, Mitchell, Thomson & Young with ignoring Court rulings, arguing over decisions by the Court and consuming more time than should have been taken in the trial. In regard to the alleged delay in the case, the motion says, "Such a practice is the cause of the courts being behind in dockets."

The material contained in the motion for the new trial is characterized as "scandalous, impertinent and redundant" and the statement is made that defense counsel has obtained no affidavits, either from jurors or spectators, to support their charges.

In defense of Judge Rutledge, the motion says he was "most considerate and acted with and possessed the patience of Job in dealing with counsel for the defendants."

Mrs. Bordley, the widow of Daniel C. Bordley, a tobacco manufacturer, left about $300,000 to friends, relatives and charities before settling aside the bulk of her estate for chronic incurables. Under legal disposition two-fifths of the estate would go to Mrs. Tatum, who received only $20,000 under the will, and the rest to other collateral heirs.

Foristel, Mudd, Blair & Habenicht and a Kansas City law firm have a contract to get 50 per cent of anything Mrs. Tatum may receive as a result of the will contest.

Plane Hits Granary, Pilot Hurt.

EKALAKA, Mont., May 11.—An airplane piloted by J. F. Sagmiller of Bowman, N. D., was wrecked east of here last night when it struck a ranch granary in taking off. Sagmiller was injured. His passengers, Joe Vanner and Kenneth Cripden of Mott, N. D., were not hurt much.

WELCOME INN MAKES REPORT

235,612 Baskets of Food Given to Needy Families.

Destitute families were given 235,612 baskets of food by Welcome Inn from May 1, 1930, to April 1, 1932, according to a report made yesterday officers of the relief station.

The cost to Welcome Inn, which is under the Fries Bridge, was $23,442.50. The average cost of each meal is estimated at only 15 cents, since most of the food is contributed.

Election by Medical Women.

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—Dr. Mary O'Malley, a clinical director of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D. C., yesterday was named president-elect of the Medical Women's National Association. She will take office next year. The convention installed Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy of Portland, Ore., as president for 1932. The association adopted resolutions requesting the removal of sex restrictions of scientific medical organizations that do not admit women and calling on all hospitals to admit women interns.

SAYS HOWELL TOLD OF WILSON'S DECOY CHECK

Dearmont Spokesman Calls on Candidate to Affirm Story of Returned Contribution.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 11.—The Dearmont-for-Governor campaign organization has raised a direct issue of veracity between the two leading candidates of Boss Pendergast of Kansas City, Francis M. Wilson, for Governor, and Charles M. Howell, for United States Senate.

The question is whether Howell as chairman of the Democratic State Committee and Wilson as candidate for Governor in 1928 had a private agreement under which Wilson's $2500 campaign contribution was returned to him.

R. K. Wilson, director of publicity of the Dearmont headquarters, today sent to newspapers for publication a statement that Howell had circulated the story. Candidate Wilson recently termed it a "malicious lie." Howell refused to affirm or deny it for publication.

Story of Contribution. In substance the report, which was published in several newspapers a week ago, was that in the 1928 campaign, Candidate Wilson contributed $2500 with the understanding with Howell that his check would be used in an effort to induce others to contribute to the campaign fund, and that after the election the contribution would be returned to him. It was further related that Candidate Wilson called on Howell and that the $2500 was repaid to him by Howell from his personal funds.

After Candidate Wilson's denial that any detail of the story was true, Howell said for publication that he would not discuss it as "he did not want to get mixed up in the campaign for the nomination for Governor."

Publicity Director Wilson of the Dearmont headquarters, in his letter, calls on Howell for a statement. "The story of the bounce-back check for $2500 Francis M. Wilson gave the Democratic State Committee in 1928 is not a new one as Mr. Wilson stated last week," Director Wilson wrote. "It has been common rumor since the last general election, but Mr. Wilson branded the story as a 'malicious lie' after it was given publicity in a St. Louis newspaper and said that the peddler of the lie was a 'contemptible scandal-monger.'"

Says Howell Circulated Report. "Mr. Wilson's denial, which would ordinarily be accepted as a fact, leaves someone in the hole. The man who solicited the gift and who is in a position to present proof, was chairman of the Democratic State Committee at the time, but refuses to affirm or deny the truth of the story. He it was who peddled the story long before it was known that Mr. Wilson would be a candidate in 1932.

"The Democratic voters are entitled to know the truth, as they well know that some one has lied. If Mr. Wilson did not accept the return of the gift he should be vindicated."

The story has attracted wide attention among Democratic politicians and, according to reports in Jefferson City, Pendergast has attempted unsuccessfully to obtain a denial from Howell.

SAYS BARGE LINE IS ONLY U. S. AGENCY MAKING MONEY

Son of Corporation's President Declares No Move for Economy Will Change Its Program.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 11.—Lieut. T. Q. Ashburn, assistant to the president of the Inland Waterways Corporation, yesterday said the corporation is the only Government agency "paying its way and making a profit." "No move for Government economy can harm the corporation's program for waterways improvement," Lieut. Ashburn, who is the son of Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, corporation president, said.

Regarding the development of the Upper Mississippi, Lieut. Ashburn said "our program has now reached a stage where we will soon be able to extend our standard nine-foot channel facilities to Chicago and Kansas City. Meanwhile our development along the Mississippi towards Minneapolis continues. The dam and locks at Davenport are a major step in this part of our program."

Hard Liquor Again in Border Town by the Associated Press.

LAREDO, Tex., May 11.—Sale of hard liquors was resumed in saloons in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, yesterday. For the last 10 days only beer had been sold because of a high tax on hard liquors. At Pecos, N. Mex., another border town, about 100 saloons closed yesterday in protest against the tax, but they were expected to open again.

When Happy Days
Are Here Again

AND pocketbooks are fatter, we will still be in business for just one reason—because people have found us useful. During this depression, when every penny counts, over 6,000,000 women shop at A&P every day. They find that our prices suit them and that they've never bought better quality food in their lives. All these women realize that there's more money saved by wise food buying than in any other household task. We'll be glad when the depression is over. But recovery may be long and slow, and in the meantime, we're going to continue to give our customers the best value for their money that is possible to human ingenuity and great resources. We want to continue our usefulness to the public.

TELLS WHY FRANK DID NOT MENTION MANICURE IN WILL

Mrs. Birck Says False Story Mrs. Hamilton Tried to Steal Her Husband Was Cause.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 11.—Mrs. Ann Hamilton, former St. Louis manicure, was not mentioned in the will of the late Nathan Frank because he was annoyed when he heard that she was "trying to steal" the husband of Mrs. Julius Birck, according to the deposition given here yesterday by Mrs. Birck, manager of a Chicago cleaning and dyeing establishment, and Mrs. Hamilton's friend.

The deposition was taken by Attorneys Randolph Laughlin and Victor Packman of St. Louis, who represent Frank's heirs in opposing Mrs. Hamilton's suit for $500,000 from the former Congressman's $4,000,000 estate. The former manicure, now manager of the Hollywood Cleaning Shop, Evanston, alleges Frank promised he would bequeath $500,000 to her if she remained unmarried during his lifetime.

Although she says she fulfilled the conditions of her agreement with the capitalist by refusing an offer of marriage "to permit him to retain her companionship and the companionship of her two children" as he requested, she was not named in his will.

Charges False Report. "It was all because of a woman named Chambers," Mrs. Birck testified. "You see, Mrs. Chambers tried to sell some oil stock to my husband. Well, he was almost convinced and wrote a check for $3000 for the stock. Then he investigated and stopped payment on the check. That made Mrs. Chambers angry."

"We knew Mrs. Hamilton well. She had lived with us before she met Mr. Frank, and she had been enrolled in a school for beauty parlor operators my husband and I conducted. Anyway, we found out that Mrs. Chambers went to Mr. Frank and told him that Ann was trying to steal my husband from me. That was an utter falsehood, but Mr. Frank must have believed it because he gave Mrs. Chambers a check for $3000 for what he thought was information."

"Why, it was in 1922," Mrs. Birck continued, "soon after he bought the Webster Hotel beauty shop for $1500 for Ann, that he called us long-distance and accused her of trying to steal Mr. Birck. She told him she was disgusted that he would listen to a rival who told him the story. I went to the phone and laughed at him when he tried to tell me about it."

Tells of Phone Talk With Frank. "He said he considered the conduct of Mrs. Hamilton grossly immoral and improper and that he was amazed that I would permit such things to occur under my roof. I laughed at him, and he said I was crazy to laugh at a serious matter like that. I am sure Mr. Frank was disturbed at the story, but he was ill and never gave Ann a chance to disprove it."

Mrs. Birck testified that Frank told Mrs. Hamilton, frequently, she would never want money for herself and her two children. Hundred dollar bills fluttered from envelopes containing letters from the former Congressman and capitalist, Mrs. Birck said. "One day I went with her to Mr. Frank's office," she added, "and he gave her $2000 to pay some small bills. He put his arm around her shoulder and said he was going to see she was always cared for." Mrs. Birck denied, when questioned by Attorney Laughlin, that her husband had wrecked a vase of roses sent to Mrs. Hamilton by Frank.

Contradicts Wife's Story. Miss Anna Malloy, Chicago social worker, agreed in her deposition that Frank's ardor for Mrs. Hamilton abated when he learned of her attachment for Mrs. Birck's husband. "He told me in 1922 that he was through with Mrs. Hamilton," Miss Malloy testified, "because he had learned she was friendly with Birck."

Of this friendship it appeared that Miss Malloy had considerable knowledge. She said she had seen Mrs. Hamilton on Birck's lap "hundreds of times." She kissed him and called him "daddy," the witness added. "Mrs. Birck only sighed, and after Mrs. Hamilton and Birck went out, she would cry. 'She loved her husband so much she was willing to share his love.'"

Miss Malloy continued, "so she would not lose him. She rode in street cars, while Birck and Mrs. Hamilton used his automobile." Mrs. Birck once told her, the witness said, that Mrs. Hamilton had tuberculosis, and that "maybe she wouldn't have to wait long." But Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Malloy added, told her that Mrs. Birck had diabetes.

ONLY 3 PUBLIC GOLF LINKS ARE USED MORE THAN FOREST PARK'S

By W. J. McGoogan.

Few municipal golf courses in the United States are used more than the 18-hole course in Forest Park, according to a book of statistics issued by the Public Links Section of the United States Golf Association, which shows that there were 181,703 rounds of golf played over the Forest Park course in 1931.

The University City course, too, is popular, 42,633 players using last year.

Two courses in San Francisco which are in use for the greater part of the 12 months every year showed the largest attendance—Lincoln Park with 200,335 and Harding Memorial Park with 193,442. Jackson Park, Chicago, attracted 154,715, and Lincoln Park, 119,751. Chandler Park, Detroit, was played 142,812 times and Palmer Park, which is a nine-hole course, 154,873. Van Cortlandt Park, New York, totaled 111,122 rounds.

222 Public Courses.

The number of public courses in the United States has increased from fewer than 100 to 222 in the past 10 years, or since the Public Links Section was organized by J. F. Byers, who was then president of the U. S. G. A. in February, 1922.

Illinois, with 33, has more municipal courses than any other state in the Union. New York has 26, Michigan 21, California 14, Ohio 16, Indiana 15, Florida, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Texas, 13 each. Missouri has only eight.

The National Public Links championship this year will be played at Louisville. The competition is open to players of public courses who have no membership in a private club.

Six Players on Park Teams.

Each city is permitted to send six players to the tournament, of which four compose the team play and two the individual play. The Warren G. Harding Cup presented to the team each season whose players have the lowest aggregate score in the quality round.

Eddie Field, then of St. Louis, was the first national municipal champion, having won the title at Toledo in 1922. Last year Charles Ferrera of San Francisco won over the Keller course in St. Paul and the San Francisco team captured the team trophy.

Entries for this year's meet are being handled in St. Louis by John Griffin, secretary of the Forest Park Golf Club.

Westborough in Fine Shape.

The Westborough Country Club course, over which the annual St. Louis District tournament will be held May 22-25, is in excellent condition. Several greens have been resurfaced this season to replace those which were burned out last summer's drought.

Total yardage for the course is only 6008, with a par of 72. Westborough is not a particularly difficult layout, but there are plenty of hazards which, particularly on windy day, should prove difficult for the unwary golfer trying to force his shots to equal par.

The hole-in-one club is slow in getting started here this season, with three aces having come to the attention of this newspaper. The late Charles Rostenberg made one at Creve Coeur; H. Beckenbichler at North Shore, and Dr. Dickerson an ace at Sunset.

Drury Hopes to Keep Football On Sport List

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 11.—Intercollegiate football will not be abandoned by Drury College unless all other schools in the Missouri College Union abolish the sport and eliminate competition for the Springfield school, Albert Weiser, Drury athletic director, has announced. Weiser's statement followed rumors that Drury might follow the lead of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., also a member of the union, which announced last week it was dropping football from its sports schedule.

Reports that the M. C. U. officials of which will meet tomorrow at Columbia, in their annual spring gathering, would take action to disintegrate came as a surprise to Drury officials. No communication of such plans has passed between schools of the conference, they said.

Agitation for a freshman rule in the M. C. U. will be aired at the session tomorrow, but coaches of the conference generally are believed to be opposed to prohibiting first year athletes from competing on varsity teams.

Owen Lodge, dental technician of Butte, Montana, tells Robert Casey about motoring problems in the Rockies

An Interview by ROBERT J. CASEY

Chicago Daily News Reporter

"IN the Rockies," said Owen Lodge of Butte, "the difference between a car and a mountain goat is that you don't have to lubricate the goat."

Mr. Lodge is a dental technician who in two years has driven a 1930 Chevrolet over 32,201 miles of canyon roads and high passes.

"Out here you can't afford to experiment with engine oil," he said as he took a steep grade to demonstrate the performance of his engine. "When Paul Bunyan was designing the Rockies he must have figured on shaking automobiles to pieces as soon as possible."

"So, as soon as I got this car, I filled it up with Iso-Vis and I've been using Iso-Vis ever since. "Driving other cars and using whatever oil was handy, I had all the usual troubles of mountain driving. I got to know almost as much about engines as I knew about teeth." He listened appraisingly as the engine picked up and lifted the car in high gear to the crest above Butte.

"Have you seen the inside of this engine?" his passenger asked.

"No," he said fervently, "and I'm beginning to hope I never will. You may have noticed that I haven't even a carbon knock, and I believe the oil has plenty to do with that. I've never had the head off the engine and I've never had to grind valves."

"I don't do much driving in connection with my work but when I do drive I want to go places. I went from here to Eugene, Ore., last year in just over thirty hours—crossed two mountain ranges and ran through weather that varied from freezing to 119 degrees in the shade. I added one quart of oil for the trip."

Mr. Lodge's 32,201 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A. A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) will not thin out from dilution. See the Ball and Bottle Test at Standard Oil service stations and dealers.

FRENCH PRESIDENT'S SLAYER TAKEN BEFORE MAGISTRATE
Questioned About Fast; He Is Writing Account of Events Leading Up to Killing.
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 11. — Paul Gorgulov, the man who killed President Doumergue, was taken before a Magistrate today for formal questioning about his personal history.
A great crowd waited outside the court to watch the assassin's arrival from Sainte prison. He was mumbling prayers all the way. After the examination the police disclosed that the man was working night and day in his cell writing an account of the murder and the events which led up to it. They said the manuscript had no appearance of having been written under a strain.

CHICAGO, May 11. — Mason Page Mitchell, 24 years old, arrived from Indianapolis to propose marriage to Rose Ferguson. They had been friends for a year and a half, but she loved another. She told him so when he called at her apartment this morning. "He seemed stunned," she said. "He stepped into the bathroom. A few minutes later I heard him fall." A physician hurried him to a hospital.

IRISH TAX INCREASE PROPOSED Income Levy Would Be 5 Shillings on the Pound.
By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 11. — Drastic increases in taxes which would boost the income tax and levy increased duties on several staple articles are proposed in the Irish Free State budget introduced today in the Dail.
The income tax would be increased to 5 shillings on the pound from 3 shillings, 6 pence. There will be a tea duty of 4 pence a pound and a package tax of 1 pence on each container, applying to all articles of food and drink, cosmetics or medical preparations packed ready for sale. The entertainment tax will be extended to include dancing, outdoor sports, horse racing and dog racing. The tobacco duty will be increased by 1 shilling 2 pence a pound. The Government proposes to levy 10 per cent of the Irish Hospital share in sweepstakes proceeds, which would bring £650,000.

HAY URGES PARTY PLATFORM BASED ON HUMAN RIGHTS

Outlines Economic Program in Opening Campaign for Democratic Senatorial Nomination.

DOUBTS DRY REPEAL WOULD HELP MATTER

Favors Direct Farm Relief — "Partnership of Government and Big Business Has Failed."

The leadership of the Democratic party must come forward with a program couched "in terms of human rights and not so much in terms of profits, incomes and dividends," if the party is to render a real service to the country, Charles M. Hay, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, told an audience at the Odson last night at the formal opening of his campaign.
He outlined his program on economic issues as a candidate and called upon the Democratic party to adopt a policy for the relief of unemployment through the enactment of the Wagner bill, for the shorter week and shorter working day, for the same and practicable use of man-power in lieu of machine power in public work, and for the maintenance of a high standard of wages.
Quoted from "Country's Plight."
In an analysis of the distress of the country, Hay quoted from "The Country's Plight — What Can Be Done About It?" published in the Post-Dispatch, to assign the blame for the trouble continued substitution of machine power for man power, mergers and combinations with the resulting maldistribution of wealth.
He attributed to the Republican administration responsibility for aggravation of distress which naturally resulted from the decrease of employment due to machines and the concentration of wealth.
The administration, he said, "was utterly lacking in vision and planning" to spread employment to provide against permanent unemployment. He cited President Hoover's veto of the Wagner unemployment bureau bill, the failure of the administration to support the shorter week and shorter day, and the failure to encourage the maximum use of human labor and the minimum use of machines on public work as "sins of omission."
He stated as "sins of commission," the tariff policy, "which virtually destroyed our foreign markets," the cutting down of surpluses on large estates, encouragement of stock speculation by abandonment of the principles of the antitrust laws, the anticipation of the payment of the national debt before maturity, and a "blundering agricultural policy."

"Hamiltonianism Run Amuck."
Quoting the recent statement of Ogden Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, "I believe that wealth ought to be aggregated in the hands of the few, for only they know how to use it wisely," Hay asserted that the whole philosophy of the Republican administration was wrong. "Hamiltonianism has run amuck," he said. The partnership of government and big business has failed. The theory of special privilege has proved false and unsound.
"If our party is to render real service," he continued, "it must come forward not only with a program, but with a program. We must do something more than voice a criticism and return an indictment."
Hay referred to the argument, advanced by some, that repeal of Prohibition would solve the problem of unemployment, denying that that would be a solution, as he said, there would remain the problem of technological unemployment, the concentration in industry, the mortgages on the farms and the aggregation of wealth in the few.
He said he stood for and hoped the Democratic party would stand for a constructive unemployment insurance policy, the shorter working day and week, sane and practicable use of man power in lieu of machine power on public works, and maintenance of the "highest possible wage standard."

For Direct Farm Relief.
Abolition or reorganization of the Farm Board he asserted to be necessary to accomplish aid for the farmers, and to the same end revision of the tariff to stimulate foreign markets and the formulation of a plan to revive farmers and consumers generally from extortionate prices imposed by monopolies.
Hay's proposal for direct farm relief was for the creation of a Government agency to amortize the $3,500,000,000 of farm loans on a 4-year basis through an issuance of 2 per cent tax-free bonds. The proceeds to be lent to the farmers

SUES THIRD TIME FOR DIVORCE

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 11. — The latest divorce action of Helen Lee Worthing, former Follies girl, a white woman, filed yesterday against Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, Negro physician, will be contested. Dr. Nelson's attorney says, by a petition for annulment.
Mrs. Worthing's complaint charged her husband was cruel and jealous, had a violent temper and made her a virtual prisoner. The divorce suit is the third filed in two years by Mrs. Nelson. She alleges their community property was valued at $100,000 and that the physician had an income of about $2000 monthly. She asked for temporary alimony of $675 a month. Dr. Nelson's attorney said the annulment petition would declare the marriage in Tijuana illegal because they did not comply with the Mexican law as to witnesses.

PART THREE

HAY URGES PARTY PLATFORM BASED ON HUMAN RIGHTSOutlines Economic Program in Opening Campaign for Democratic Senatorial Nomination.DOUBTS DRY REPEAL WOULD HELP MATTERFavors Direct Farm Relief —Partnership of Government and Big Business Has Failed.

The leadership of the Democratic party must come forward with a program couched "in terms of human rights and not so much in terms of profits, incomes and dividends." If the party is to render a real service to the country, Charles M. Hay, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, told an audience at the Odeon last night at the formal opening of his campaign.

He outlined his program on economic issues as a candidate and called upon the Democratic party to adopt a policy for the relief of unemployment through the enactment of the Wagner bill, for the shorter week and shorter working day, for the same and practicable use of man-power in lieu of machine power in public work, and for the maintenance of a high standard of wages.

Quoting from "Country's Plight," an analysis of the distress of the country, Hay quoted from "The Country's Plight" — "What Can Be Done About It?" published in the Post-Dispatch, to assign as the cause of the trouble continued substitution of machine power for man power, mergers and combinations and the resulting maldistribution of wealth.

He attributed to the Republican administration responsibility for aggravation of distress which naturally resulted from the haste with which the business and industry and the concentration of machine power.

The administration, he said,
"was utterly lacking in vision and planning" to spread employment to provide against permanent unemployment. He cited the Senator Hay's veto of the Wagner unemployment bureau bill, the failure of the administration to support the shorter week and shorter day, and the failure to encourage the maximum use of human power and the minimum use of machines on public work as "sins of omission."

He stated as "sins of commission" the tariff policy, "which virtually destroyed our foreign markets," the cutting down of survivors on large estates, encouragement of stock speculation by abandonment of the principles of the antitrust laws, the anticipation of the payment of the national debt before maturity, and a "bundles of agricultural policy."

"Hamiltonianism Run Amuck"
Quoting the recent statement of Senator Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, "I believe that wealth ought to be aggregated in the hands of the few, for only they know how to use it wisely," Hay asserted that the whole philosophy of the Republican administration was wrong. "Hamiltonianism has run amuck," he said. "The partnership of government and big business has failed. The theory of special privilege has proved false and unsound."

If our party is to render real service, he continued, "it must come forward not only with a program, but with a program. We must do something more than voice a criticism and return an indictment."

Hay referred to the argument, advanced by some, that repeal of prohibition would solve the problem of unemployment, denying that that would be a solution, as he said there would remain the problem of technological unemployment. The machine replacement of man in industry, he said, has merely changed the location of the unemployment from the farms and the aggregation of wealth in the few.

He said he stood for and hoped the Democratic party would stand for a constructive unemployment policy, the Wagner unemployment bill, the shorter working day and week, sane and practicable use of man power in lieu of machine power on public works, and maintenance of the "highest wage standard."

For Direct Farm Relief.
Abolition or reorganization of the Farm Board he asserted to be necessary to accomplish aid for the farmers, and to the same end repeal of the tariff to stimulate foreign markets and the formulation of a plan to revive farmers and consumers generally from exorbitant prices imposed by monopolies.

Hay's proposal for direct farm relief was for the creation of a Government agency to amortize the $250,000,000 of farm loans on a 5-year basis through an insurance of 2 per cent tax-free bonds, the proceeds to be lent to the farmers

Sodom and Gomorrah Sites
Yield Evidence of FireArcheologists Also Uncover Curious Rock Formation Associated With Story of Lot's Wife and Pillar of Salt.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 11.—Father Alexis Mallon, Jesuit archeologist of the Pontifical Biblical Institute at Rome, believes he has confirmed as a fact the Biblical story of the destruction of Sodom and Gomo-rrah by fire and brimstone. With Father Robert Koepfel, he has spent three years excavating the two cities on the north shore of the Dead Sea in Palestine.

Investigation has shown, say the two priests, that the two cities were contemporary and existed from before 2500 B. C. to not later than 2100 B. C. At the latter date, Father Mallon said, both had been destroyed by fire and never were reoccupied. Traces of stone instruments, flint, and other material were found in the ruins, he said, including layers of ashes.

He added that on the plain below the hill on which the cities stood there was a curious rock formation, about five feet high which legend associates with Lot's wife, who, according to the Biblical story, was turned into a pillar of salt for turning back to look at the fire contrary to God's command.

at an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent or less.

The imposition of heavy surtaxes on large incomes and heavy inheritance taxes on large estates would, he said, be a proper tax policy for the Democratic party, and, in addition to raising revenue, would amount to a redistribution of the wealth.

Regulating Utilities.
He repeated his views on water power control and public utility regulation, stated in the announcement of his candidacy several months ago.

The sources of water power must remain under public ownership and control; under Federal control, where owned by the Federal Government; under state control where owned by the state government.
The government agency, whether state or Federal, must retain the right through agreements with distributing companies to provide fair and reasonable rates to the ultimate consumer.

He advocated membership by the United States in the World Court under the conditions of the Root protocol.

In his conclusion, which was taken by many in his audience as a thrill at Charles M. Howell, one of his opponents, Hay urged upon the voters that it was in the primary they must direct the party policy against "special interests and special privilege."

"A party cannot go for equal rights in November. It goes for special interests and special privilege in June and August," he said.
Introduced by Dr. Simon.

Hay was introduced by Dr. John H. Simon, who said that he supported Hay notwithstanding the fact that he was wet and Hay was dry. He told of Hay's active support of Democratic candidates who were wet, particularly mentioning his strong support of Gov. Smith in 1928.

Dr. Simon said there was no doubt in his mind of Hay's nomination and election. "After he is in the Senate," Simon said, "I will go to Washington and he and I will sit down together. He will have a glass of water in front of him and a glass of beer in front of me, and we will smile together."

Hay spoke in the smaller hall at the Odeon. The hall was occupied to its capacity.

HOUSE OF COMMONS VOTES TO PCT. RISE IN SILK TARIFFWhere Duty Is Determined by Weight Rate Is Even Higher;

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 11.—The House of Commons last night passed a silk tariff measure imposing additional duties of at least 10 per cent ad valorem on both natural and artificial silks. A considerable part of these materials formerly came from the United States.

The old duty was 33 1/3 per cent ad valorem on manufactured silk goods and 3 shillings (55 cents) a pound on raw silk or silk in piece.
The new duty provides a blanket increase of a minimum of 10 per cent except where duty is calculated by weight. In the latter case it would run much higher.

ROBINSON OFFERS
DEMOCRATS' PLAN
IN NATION'S PLIGHTProgram as Radical as Progressives' Submitted After Conferences With Owen D. Young.By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—A relief and reconstruction program embracing measures that heretofore have been sponsored only by the more "radical" or "Progressive" elements in Congress was laid before the Senate today by the habitually conservative Joseph T.
Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader of the Senate.

Robinson's speech was hailed as the first step in the promulgation of a "Democratic plan" for the relief of unemployment and the rehabilitation of business.

It was made after consultation with Owen D. Young, and is understood on good authority to have Young's approval. He was here about a week ago and talked with Democratic leaders, including Robinson and Speaker John N. Garner of the House.

A Broad Program.

Robinson advocated a $2,000-000,000 bond issue for public works, including the wiping out of slum districts in great industrial centers; another Federal bond issue of $100,000,000 for the relief of suffering caused by unemployment, the money to be advanced to the states and cities; the inauguration of the 30-hour week in industry; the application of the equalization fee to wheat "as a test," and the amendment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act to permit loans to farm loan associations.

"It is especially emphasized," he said, "that the budget be balanced; that emergency relief legislation be enacted, and a self-liquidating construction program be authorized and carried forward."

Referring to the defeat of the La Follette-Cistogan relief measure earlier in the session, Robinson said it had failed partly because of difference of opinion over methods, and partly because of a lack of certainty that Federal help was imperative.

"The Time Has Come."
"But the time has come," he went on, "when it seems plain that the Federal Government must act.
Despite all efforts to stimulate employment, the information reaching me indicates that unemployment is increasing. If Congress should adjourn June 10 without taking some action on this subject, suffering which cannot now be anticipated might result, because of the breakdown of local agencies or the exhaustion of their resources."

Immediately after the conclusion of Robinson's address, Senator Davis (Rep., Pennsylvania, introduced a bill authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans to states and municipalities for relief purposes. It had been reported for several days that the administration was considering this idea, but there was no evidence that Davis' move had administrative support. No immediate action was taken on the bill.

Wagner Bill Basis for Plan.

In proposing a $200,000,000 bond issue for the relief of suffering, Robinson said that the bill of Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, now before the Senate, might well be taken as the basis for this feature of the program.

"should receive such assurance of

BRITISH MINISTER
WARNS OF MORE
CUTS IN BUDGETChancellor of Exchequer Says Changes Not Heretofore Contemplated May Be Necessary.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 11.—A warning that more drastic cuts in British national expenditures may be necessary was given by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in an address last night at the annual dinner of the Bankers' Association.

Chamberlain said that effective relief to the British taxpayer would involve "changes in national policy which would go far beyond anything that has yet been contemplated."

"There is a general agreement," he said, in referring to the world situation, "that the primary cause of the trouble which affects the world is to be found in the catastrophic decline of world prices of the primary commodities."

"When we consider how we are to check this decline in prices we no longer find the same measure of agreement. So far we have been spared the full force of the effects of the downward trend of prices.
International Action Needed.

"It may be one of the objectives of the Government to take such steps as they find possible to raise sterling prices to a level which will make it possible to carry on trading remuneratively. The full development of the policy cannot take place without international action."

Only a few hours before, Anglo-American co-operation for a world money conference had been urged in the House of Commons by Winston Churchill.

Churchill reiterated his suggestion for Anglo-American co-operation as a means of bringing France into such a movement.

Referring to Mr. Churchill's suggestion in the House of Commons, Walter Elliot, Financial Secretary of the Treasury, said any attempt at friendly co-operation with those pursuing a policy similar to Great Britain's would be doubly welcomed by the Government.

"To do anything we can with friendly nations inside and outside the British empire," he said, "is one of the greatest aims of the present administration."

Churchill asked that the Elliot statement be officially communicated to Washington.

Elliot replied that he could not conceive of such a statement on behalf of the Government not receiving attention on this or the other side of the ocean.

"There is peril around us," he said, "Peril even of a crash of Western civilization is nowise yet avoided, and dangers such as we have not yet known still lie before us. We are advancing experiment-

Bars Two Utilities Stocks.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, May 11.—The State Department of Public Utilities today prohibited the sale in Massachusetts of securities of the Insulity Investments, Inc., and of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Co.
The action was taken because the companies failed to file with the department information relative to their business as required by law.

were indorsed by Tennessee Republicans in State convention yesterday. They instructed the delegates to the national convention to nomination, and applauded a plank forcement of all prohibition laws, both national and State."

JAPAN ORDERS
ARMY AT SHANGHAI
TO RETURN HOMEGovernment Spokesman Says Decision of Cabinet
Was Made in Deference to World Opinion.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, May 11.—The Japanese Government announced today it had decided to withdraw all its troops from Shanghai.

The announcement was made by a Government spokesman at noon today. He said the Cabinet made the decision yesterday.

The matter was laid before Emperor Hirohito this afternoon and approved by him, after which the general staff telegraphed orders to Gen. Shirakawa, Japanese army commander at Shanghai, to lead all army forces there ready to return to Japan. The spokesman said the movement was expected to be completed within a month.

From then on, the spokesman said, Japan expected the United States and other Powers interested in Shanghai to see that the recently signed truce agreement was observed by China.

The soldiers would be held in readiness to return to Shanghai should a "genuine emergency" demand it, he emphasized, but the Government probably would be slow to decide such an emergency existed and would not consider minor infractions of the truce as reason for dispatching troops.

Reason for Decision.

"The decision is due to the Japanese Government's desire to conform to world opinion," he said,
"and to prove that Japan had no territorial or other ulterior motives in sending troops to Shanghai."

The withdrawal will mean a return to conditions as they existed before the outbreak at Shanghai last January which cost thousands of lives, both Chinese and Japanese, and the destruction of millions of dollars worth of property.

Since the withdrawal of the fourteenth Division from Shanghai to Manchuria, announced yesterday, only about 15,000 Japanese troops remain at Shanghai. These

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER
December 12, 1878

Published by
The Pulitzer Publishing Company
Twelfth Boulevard and Olive Street

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight democracy of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely grating news; always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER
April 10, 1907.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Moral of the Police.

There seems to be strenuous objection on the part of the Police Board to a reduction in the salaries of the police force. Why? Because the morale of the Police Department would be decreased.

Are the police so soft that their morale, blossoming and beautiful under protection, wilts and withers when exposed to the vicissitudes that others are facing? Is their morale so fragile that it requires special care? I thought policemen were made of sterner stuff. In fact, I had an idea that strength of body and strength of character were requisites of these guardians of the law, and that they specialized in morale.

But the Police Board says in effect that the police force cannot stand up under the hardships that have been endured by everyone except city, State and national employees.

The rank and file of workers took their cuts, their lay-offs, their enforced vacations, and their morale had to work on all cylinders.

Is it possible that our policeman "folds up" under trials that the ordinary worker endures with fortitude? We should be careful after this startling disclosure of the weakness of the police force to put only strong men in that body of workers, men who can in times of stress and strain play the part of men.

W. W. WILSON.

He Is Not Incensed.

A NEWS dispatch from Washington says: "Republican regulars are incensed at the defeat of the sales levy and at the high income schedule." That means that the people who are able to pay taxes are not willing to do so. What will the Government do? Lay heavier burdens upon the already poverty-stricken 90 per cent of the people? I am not "incensed" at taxing those who are able to pay, for it seems that nobody is honest enough to be willing to pay Uncle Sam for the protection he gives.

The trouble lies in the false philosophy of the people. They think that one can "get away" with dishonest and destructive acts. They do not know that the result cannot be separated from its cause. Parents and schools should teach the doctrine of personal responsibility. Teach the child not to rely upon the Government to keep him healthy or sober. Teach the law of compensation. An enlightened self-interest will save the individual and the country.

Leaving It to Blind Luck.

SAYS Ambassador Mellon: "None of us has any means of knowing when or how we shall emerge from the valley of depression. . . . But I do know that, as in the past, a day will come when we shall find ourselves on a more solid economic foundation and the onward march of progress will be resumed."

Another admission from an administration man that if we find our way out it will be blind luck, so far as the men whom we so trustingly expect to guide our economic and political destiny are concerned.

How much more of hoping and hoping and hoping with John D. Rockefeller, and going broke cheerfully with Charles M. Schwab, and "I know of no way of legislative prosperity" with Charles G. Dawes, and broadening the budget with Hoover, and broadening the base of taxation with Ogden Mills, and every man his own gardener with Henry Ford, can this country stand before it is time to sell America short?

Give the demand drastic remedies, and unless we find a competent leadership to get at the root of things and distribute the wealth of the country on a basis at least approaching equality, we may look for an uninterrupted bear market on America and the world.

PLEBE.

What Mr. Hay Said.

LARRY SHERMAN KENT discusses the question of resubmission of the eighteenth amendment in connection with the Jeffersonianism of Charles M. Hay. He says:

If Mr. Hay desires to prove that he is sincere in what he says, he should announce that he will be among the two-thirds of the necessary votes to repeal the eighteenth amendment. Not until he has said the right thing to himself can he be sincere in his Jeffersonianism.

In a speech at the Jefferson Memorial before the Women's Democratic Club, May 3, the writer heard Mr. Hay make the following statement, which was subsequently quoted in the public press on the following day:

All my life I have espoused the principle that whenever any question is so supported by public opinion that there is a reasonable question of its adoption, then it should be submitted to the people. I invoked that principle in favor of prohibition in 1910, and the right that I claim for myself I would be the last to withhold from another.

Let me say further that it is nominated and elected, and he of the 48, the necessary two-thirds, to vote to submit any alternative proposition for prohibition.

It would appear that, if Mr. Kent had followed events in the press, the necessity for his comment would not have arisen.

THE STREET CAR ISSUE.

The wage dispute between the St. Louis Public Service Co. and its employees revolves around an issue that has engaged in controversy first the company and the city, then the company and the Missouri Public Service Commission, and now the company and its employees.

It is the item of depreciation. The company estimates its revenue for the coming year at $13,400,000. Its operating expenses, taxes and interest charges are estimated at $13,077,053. There would be left $322,947 for the depreciation account.

In resisting a second 10 per cent cut in wages, the company's employees take the same position that the municipality and the State commission have both taken heretofore. That is, they assert that the item of depreciation is given undue importance in the company's statement of its financial condition, which they say is in truth better than the company represents.

The men estimate the revenue of the company in the next year at $14,000,000, and operating expenses, including taxes, at $11,500,000. They assert that after paying all operating expenses and taxes there will still be left about $2,500,000, or about $800,000 more than is needed to meet all interest payments on outstanding bonds and notes.

Responding to the city's complaint that the company's depreciation claims are excessive, the State commission undertook to fix this sum at $800,000 a year. Notwithstanding this ruling, the company has continued its practice of setting aside for depreciation about $1,500,000 a year.

This sum is included in its expected operating costs, upon which it estimates that it will have a deficit this year.

The people of St. Louis cannot have an informed opinion as to the merits of this dispute until all the facts in the controversy are laid before them by some judicial body. Are the men right when they assert that the second wage cut is not necessary to the solvency of the company, or is the company right when it asserts that it is necessary?

The Board of Aldermen has recently placed in the field a special transportation committee of three Aldermen, who are to be aided by the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

The committee would therefore consist, in addition to the three Aldermen, of the Mayor, the Comptroller and the President of the Board of Aldermen. It could not be better qualified to bring out the facts in the present controversy, and it could well afford to do so.

We make this suggestion in the interest of truth and understanding, and without prejudice to either side in the wage dispute.

The present wage contract between the company and the men expires May 19. There will be no wage agreement between them beyond that date. The men have voted to strike before they will accept the second reduction.

It is a function of municipal government in matters affecting any public service to bring out the merits of the controversy in order that the people may know the truth.

Moreover, the city holds 15,000 shares of the company's preferred stock and is interested in its equity. What are the facts in the depreciation dispute? Was the city wrong? Was the State commission wrong? Are the men wrong? Or is the company wrong? The issue must be settled. There can be no intelligent judgment upon the merits of the wage dispute until it is settled.

They might try that mechanical sandman on Old Boy Depression.

DOLLAR ZOOLOGY.

Annual reports of museums are diverting things. They take one's mind from troubles and lead one down mammal-sprinkled paths. Take the thirty-third such of the American Museum of Natural History, just come to hand. Its 205 pages are packed with fascinating pictures of mounted specimens, scientific names and countless opportunities for those who are undecided about how to invest their money. There are, for instance, the 14 opportunities for the donation of animal groups for the African Hall, planned but as yet unfunded. While persons who do not care to go above $25,000 will find their opportunities limited to a choice between a family of wart hogs and a group of colobus monkeys, those signing the dotted line for $35,000 can select from a chimpanzee reunion under the bamboos, grazing ostriches, Madagascarian lemurs and an assortment of carion feeders, including a vulture, a jackal and a hyena. A cool $50,000 will endow a surprise meeting between a white-striped antelope and a wild hog, a domestic scene among the fast disappearing black rhinoceros, a Nile miscellany, or a bevy of lithe gazelles. The supreme achievement, it seems, comes for $80,000, with the establishment of a group of "the rare and beautiful okapi, a close relative of the giraffe living in the Great Rain Forest of the Congo." Breathes there a man who is not stirred by such opportunities? We grow not.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. is shown behind a spirited trotter at a Virginia resort, with the caption, "He hasn't forgotten how to drive." And the old fellow trudging wearily along the pike is Charlie Schwab, who hasn't forgotten how to walk.

WASHINGTON IS VINDICATED.

A sour note was sounded in the sweet harmonies of the current bicentennial festivities by iconoclasts who sought to deprive Washington of his honors as first President. Now the State Department has officially squelched the delvers who thought the title should go to John Hanson, once saluted as "President of the United States in Congress Assembled." Hanson unquestionably held that title, and it was a far more resounding one than Washington's, but it didn't mean as much. Dr. David S. Muzzey, the historian, points out that, as President of the Continental Congress under the Articles of Confederation, Hanson held an office theoretically akin to that of the Vice President of the United States under the Constitution in his function of presiding over the Senate.

Hanson was head of an unimportant body in an impotent government. Of 91 Congressmen, only 20 were present when Washington surrendered his command, and attendance dwindled still more as the states lost interest in the mockery of representation. The country had a "government by supplication," as Gouverneur Morris called it, for Congress had authority to do little more than make suggestions. In setting him up as the first executive, Hanson's protagonists exaggerate the empty honor he held. At any rate, the State Department has spoken. It will be unnecessary to cancel any pageants, and Washington's laurels have come through the controversy without shedding a leaf.

ADJOURN PARTISANSHIP.

Sooner or later they will have to adjourn partisanship at Washington. A suggestion to that effect, made by Senator Robinson, that a special committee be created to deal with the problem of economy in a non-partisan way, has been formally accepted by Chairman Jones of the Senate Appropriations Committee. The Republican leader, Senator Watson, heartily approves the idea. Meantime, Senator Borah voiced the sentiment of the man in the street when he said he did "not care one whoop who gets the glory—the executive, the legislature, the Republicans, the Democrats, or both, just so the country gets the economy."

The country will get economy. It has got to get it. And in getting it, there will have to be concessions on all sides. It is going to be particularly necessary, it seems to us, for the President to yield here and there if the essential team work is to be had.

It was a mistake, we believe, for Mr. Hoover to have opposed the proposed consolidation of the War and Navy departments, which would have effected an estimated saving of $50,000,000. Congressman Cochran of St. Louis, discussing this point, ventures the proposal would have carried, notwithstanding the energy of the army-navy lobby, if Mr. Hoover had not let it be known that he would veto a bill carrying that provision.

Everybody, we feel sure, sympathizes with Mr. Hoover. He is in the most tumultuous sea of troubles a peace-time President has faced. If he and Congress are going to get anywhere, as they must, they will have to accept objectionable retrenchments. We doubt if there could be a more popular economy anywhere in the public service than in the costly military bureaucracy.

The Washington spectacle for the last month has not been edifying. But the anger is subsiding, the emotional temperature is dropping, reason is slowly asserting itself and in the end the budget will be balanced by a rational tax bill, plus the required economies.

If, by any chance, Washington should fail to accomplish that objective, public opinion would, we think, charge the responsibility impartially to the executive, the legislature, the Republicans and the Democrats.

A PRIZE-WINNING BILL.

The prize for unadulterated gall goes to the author and supporters of the Welch civilian hospitalization bill, just vetoed by Mr. Hoover. It would have provided free hospital treatment and entrance into soldiers' homes for civilians serving on transports in the Spanish War, the Philippine insurrection and the Boxer rebellion. These civilians were paid for their services and have absolutely no claim upon the Government, yet they have the nerve to sponsor a bill of this kind, which, according to Mr. Hoover, would ultimately cost the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars. And Congress had the spinelessness to pass it!

During the last war, millions of civilians did one kind of war work or another. Most of them were well paid; others contributed their services. Are we to witness, in addition to pension grabs by veterans who suffered no injury or disability in the war, a movement to extend Government support to shipyard workers, four-minute speakers, dollar-a-year men and impoverished profiteers who had war contracts?

If the pension movement spreads at its present rate of progress, 50 per cent of the people of the country will soon be working to support the remaining 50 per cent.

TWO ELECTION ALARMS.

An interesting sidelight on the French parliamentary elections is in connection with the assassination of President Doumer. Following the tragedy, ex-President Millerand, a conservative, announced he had private information which led him to say, "in the most categorical way," that the slayer, who had been identified as a Russian imperialist, was in reality a Bolshevik. In this statement Millerand was backed by Pierre Jullien, chief of the secret service. Some observers expected these charges would stem the swing to the left, and would divert voters from the liberal side back to the conservatives. This, however, did not result, and the left majority was decisive.

The supposedly volatile French refused to let themselves be swayed in circumstances very similar to those in which the reputedly phlegmatic British stamped eight years ago. The Zinovief letter, published a few days before the 1924 parliamentary elections, threw England into a panic over the "red menace." The letter, purporting to give plans for a revolution in England, was later proved a forgery, but not until after it had been the chief cause in the defeat of Labor and the Conservatives' return to power.

The two incidents, corresponding in many details, reflect the true characters of these nations. The British, innately conservative, turn to the Tories when the cry of "wolf" is raised and King and country are said to be in danger. The French, more calmly rationalistic, as befits the countrymen of Voltaire, prefer to wait until the alarmist proves his case, when there will be plenty of time to act.

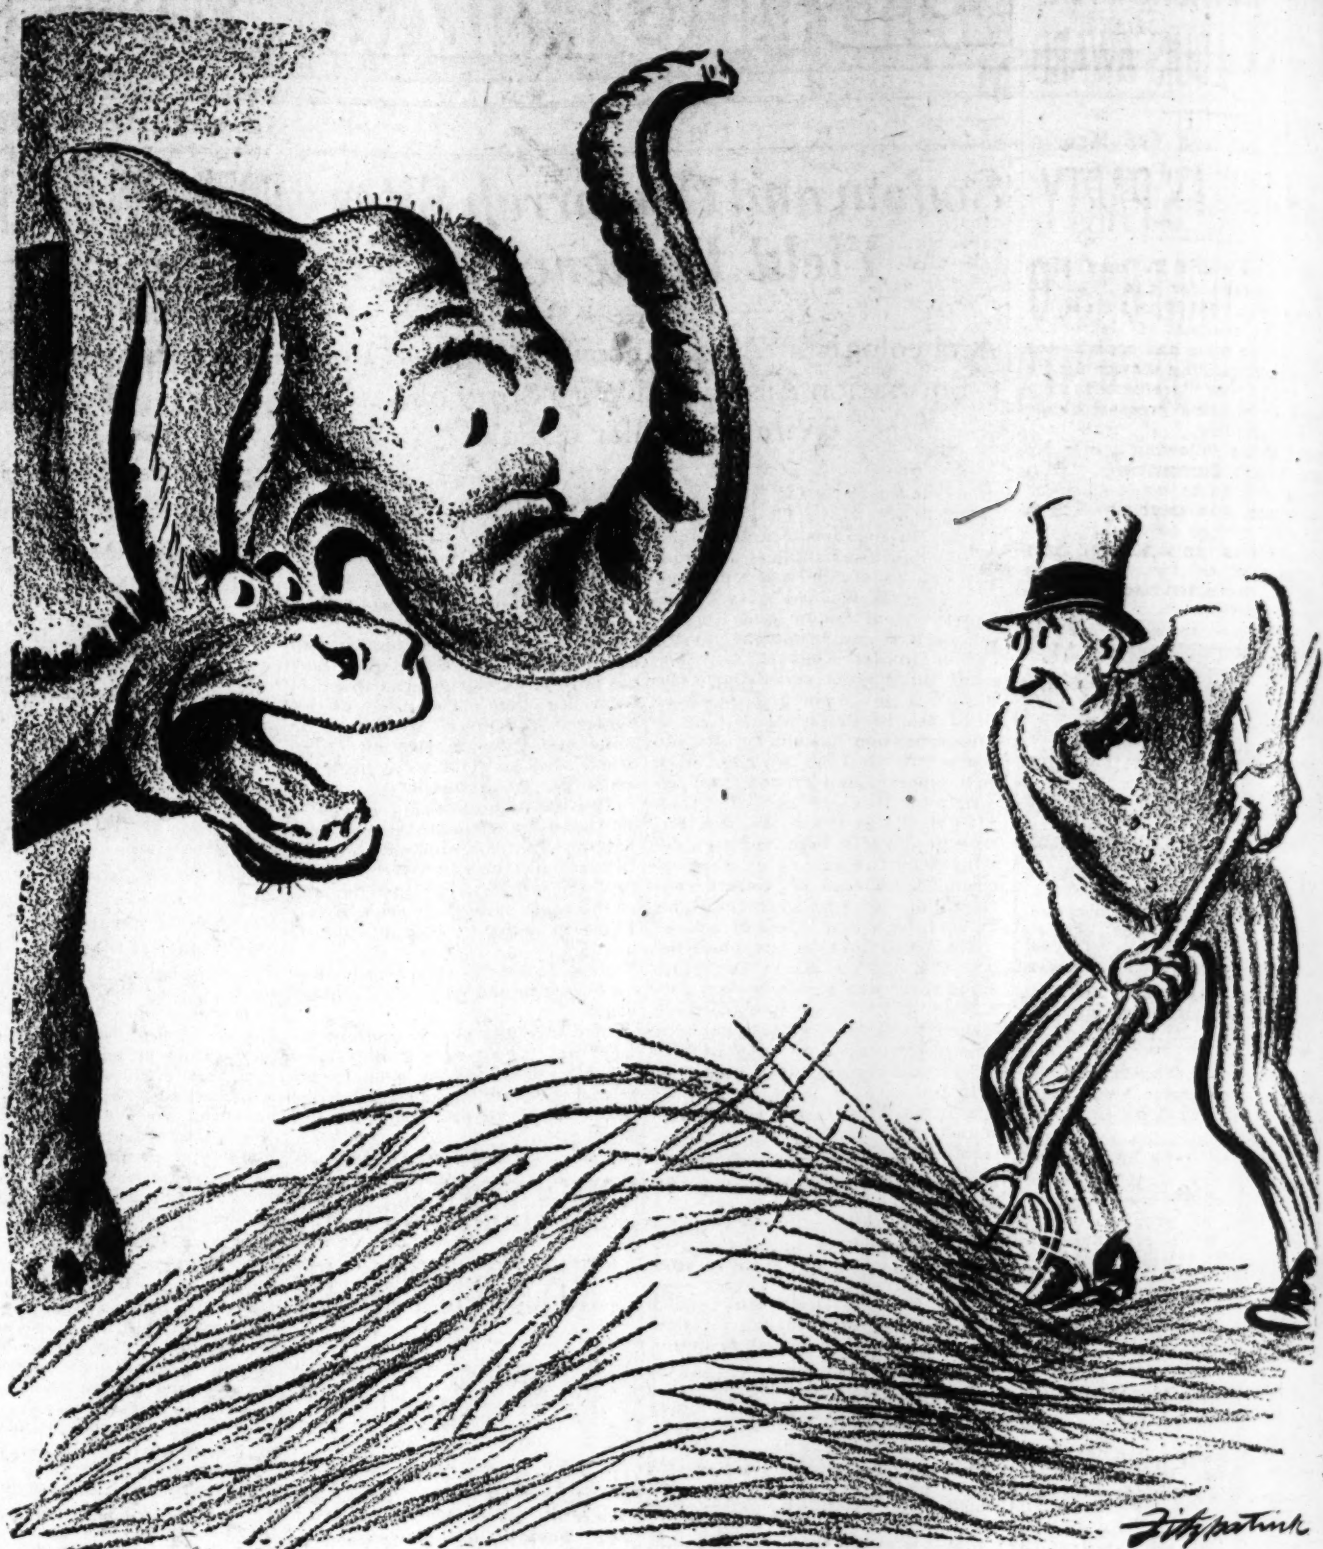

AN ACTUAL PERSON.

Francis M. Wilson, Democratic candidate for Governor, has at last appeared on a platform to make a speech. This breaks a custom of Mr. Wilson's, which is to sit back and let others do his talking for him. Around St. Louis, anyone who is interested in Mr. Wilson's views must be content with hearing his mouthpieces, Glendy Arnold and William L. Igoe.

It may be that Mr. Wilson did not say very much at Westminster College; that he simply put on the hair shirt and complained of the methods being used to defeat him. He cited Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Jackson, Adams, Monroe, Cleveland, Wilson, McKinley and Roosevelt as having experienced the same tortures as are now being applied to him. We should think he would be content to find he is in such distinguished company.

In any case, Mr. Wilson appeared in public, thus proving he is not a will o' the wisp or a figment of Boss Pendergast's imagination, but an actual person. This is progress. Perhaps before the primary, he may relent still further and actually discuss the issues of the campaign.

A People's Program of Economy

By Walter Lippmann.

IN the last week, thanks to the President's two public utterances, public opinion has begun to apply a little of the pressure that will be needed if Congress is to cut the costs of government. But that pressure must increase if results are to be obtained. This means that the public needs to have an economy program of its own. It has been hearing a lot about the administration's program. Nothing has as yet come of that. It has been hearing a lot about a House program and a Senate program. Nothing has as yet come of them. Perhaps the time has arrived for a people's program, because something might come out of that.

It is not possible or necessary for the public to confuse its mind with all the intricacies of Government expenditures. There is a much simpler way to go about this business. That way is to determine how much the total reduction in expenditures should be and then put the responsibility for effecting this reduction where that responsibility belongs.

How much, then, ought the Federal expenditures to be cut? What is a fair measure of the feasible economies? The present budget calls for expenditures of about 4900 million dollars. Now, in the years 1925 and 1926, the expenditures were in the neighborhood of 3600 millions. Those were very good years. This is a very bad year.

Is there anything unreasonable in saying that the expenditures should be cut to the level on which the Government was operated quite satisfactorily in 1925 and 1926? Remember that the budget makes no provision for the relief of the unemployed. Such provision will probably have to be made in one way or another before next winter, but it is not a factor in the present problem. The problem now is to cut the normal expenditures. It does not seem like an extreme demand that these normal expenditures be cut to the level of prosperous years like 1925 and 1926. In proposing that the present budget be cut 500 million dollars, it is safe to assume that nothing need be taken away which seemed essential seven or eight years ago.

Of the total expenditures of 4900 million dollars, one-quarter is for the national debt, though it should be remembered that sinking fund requirements are being postponed. The point is that, disregarding the debt, this leaves about 3600 millions of expenditures from which to cut 500 millions; say, roughly, 15 per cent.

The next question is: How shall this cut of 15 per cent be made? If there were plenty of time, if this problem had been taken in hand when it should have been, if there existed the morale in Washington and the public spirit in the country to deal with lobbyists and organized minorities, the best way to make the cut would be by careful examination of all the expenditures. But such a procedure is not possible under existing conditions. It is necessary to resort to a cruder justice and to say simply that every appropriation bill shall be cut 15 per cent.

This would mean that each department of government would have 15 per cent less to spend than it had counted on under the budget offered to Congress last December. The wisest procedure, then, would be for Congress to give the President blanket emergency powers to arrange the expenditures within each department to fit this reduced budget, and it might be provided that one part of this retrenchment should consist in a reduction of 10 per cent in salaries under $2500 and 15 per cent in all others.

Such a program would require three actions by Congress:

1. A cut of 15 per cent in all appropriations.

2. A mandate to cut all salaries by a specific percentage.

3. A grant of blanket emergency powers to make the economies effective.

Then Congress could drop the subject and pass on to a tax bill which would balance the reduced budget.

The objection to such a program will arise wholly from the unwillingness of Congress to give so much power to the executive. Congress has got into the habit of going beyond the making of laws and the granting of funds into the field of administering the Government itself. Under a proper division of powers, Congress would tell the executive how much it was allowed to spend and it would define the general objects which the money was to be spent for. There it would stop. It would let the executive determine the administrative details, and it would hold the executive responsible for the results.

To this sound principle of government we ought in this emergency to return. If it were done, the problem of economy would be relatively simple, and it could promptly be disposed of. All that is really required is an awakened public opinion which will demand that Congress cut total appropriations about 15 per cent, and that the executive be given the power to put the economy into effect. Such a program places responsibility where it belongs—upon Congress to determine how much of the people's money shall be spent and for what general purposes, and upon the President to spend it as efficiently as possible.

A PROFITABLE COUNTY MERGER.

FROM the Daily Oklahoman.
LESS than a year ago the people of Campbell (one of Georgia's smallest counties) voted their county out of existence and aligned themselves with the richer county of Fulton. As a direct consequence of this act of county abolition, the people of what was Campbell County will pay $60,000 less in taxes this year than they did last.

Here is an open road to real tax reduction and one that will invite the people of weak counties throughout the country more and more as the need for economy grows. There are people living in weak counties in Oklahoma who could profit materially from a merging of counties and who would acquire no additional hardships thereby.

It is rather interesting to note that almost exactly half of the counties of the United States are in the South, which section consists of little more than one-third of the country's area. Why should Southern states have more counties and consequently smaller ones than the Northern states? And what would the people of those weak Southern counties lose by effecting mergers and forming new counties as large as the average Northern county?

The People Are Thinking

R. J. W. in Judge.

DURING the late unpleasantness (many months later) over balancing the budget, a good deal was heard about the disgust of "thinking people" with the performance in the House. After the rejection of the sales tax and the increases in inheritance and income taxes, "thinking people" self-styled, jumped at conclusions and began to gabble about "reckless disregard of sound principles of public finance."

That House wasn't running wild at all. It was doing, boisterously but shrewdly nevertheless, the very job that it was created to do. It was representing the plain folks. Because its leaders thrust at it a tax measure that would have piled a cruel burden on backs unable to bear more, it ditched its leaders and cried, "Now what are you going to do about it?"

The proponents of the sales tax were not thinking people. They were unthinking and recklessly so. It is the common people who are doing the hard thinking. Although we are at a crisis when the budget must be balanced and taxes must be raised for revenue, that cannot obscure the historical truth that taxation has also a social purpose. What we are in for, and the real thinking people know it, is the widest redistribution of wealth, partly through taxation. The question is not whether the redistribution is to take place. The real question is how much is to be done by taxation, and how much by more drastic means.

"Soaking the rich" is a phrase which oversimplifies a very complex process. All the revenue needed can't be had by taxing the rich. They haven't enough. Everybody has "flights of capital," the people have been "trudging away in a grim and weary flight from consumption. When they heard the sales tax rumbling behind them, they let out a howl so loud that their Representatives could not choose but heed."

The basic fact about this distribution is that there are eight to 10 million workers with no work, and therefore with no means to consume of their own volition. They are of course consuming a bare minimum, because we can't quite make up our minds to let them starve and be done with it. We accept them as public charges and feed, house and clothe them as such. A sensible government would see that they might as well be put to work for their keep. It would put them on the roads and structures that need to be built, on the hillsides that need reforestation, on a thousand constructive jobs that would repay their costs within a generation. No one of these would add to the glut of manufacturing goods that has been piled up through our solicitude for invested capital.

27 NOMINATIONS MADE FOR ST. LOUIS AWARD

Two Women and 25 Men in Line for 1932 Prize for Public Service.

Two women and 25 men have been nominated for the 1932 St. Louis award of $1000 and a certificate "to the resident of Metropolitan St. Louis who has contributed the most outstanding service for its development" or "performed such services as to bring greatest honor to the community." It was announced today following a meeting of the Award Committee.

The award, to be made annually for 10 years, was established by a donor who wished to remain unknown. He set up a $10,000 fund and appointed an Award Committee, which "accepted the responsibility in the hope that the award will reward in some degree the persons who contribute most to the finer growth or prestige of the community, and will stimulate the citizens of the St. Louis metropolitan area toward constructive accomplishments for the benefit of the city."

Members of the committee who attended the meeting to discuss nominees included J. Lionberger, board chairman of Security National Bank; Dean Loeb of Washington University School of Business; and Public Administration Director Moore of Shaw's Garden; Dean Schwitalla of St. Louis University School of Medicine; Charles Nagel, attorney and former Cabinet member; and Gilbert Harris, executive director of the Y. M. C. A.-Y. W. H. A., who is secretary of the committee.

Persons nominated for the award, as announced by the committee, are:

Mrs. Elias Michael, member of the School Board.
Mrs. E. H. Steedman, president of the Community Council.
Dwight F. Davis, former Secretary of War and former Governor-General of the Philippines.
Alderman Eilers of the Twenty-Sixth Ward.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL P. MCGODDARD, 4441 Cecil avenue, were host and hostess at an afternoon tea party Sunday at Cedar-Brow Farm near De Soto, Mo., in honor of Mrs. Harry Gilbert Hurd, and her fiancée, William Stearnwood Belal, whose marriage will take place this summer. The rooms were attractively decorated with wild columbine and other spring flowers. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Culver, and Mrs. Culver's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Morley of Detroit, who are her guests; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Neuhoff Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Grossman, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Russe, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan I. Meier, Mr. and Mrs. Perle Burton, Mrs. Edward H. Higbee, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Augustine, Mr. and Mrs. George Barnard Gannett, Miss Myra White and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chamberlain.

Several parties are being planned for Mrs. Hurd, including a buffet dinner tonight with Mr. and Mrs. Mansfield C. Bay, 6440 Cecil avenue, at which Mrs. Morley will share honors, and another party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Burton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Houston Witherspoon, 5211 Clemens avenue, will entertain a group of their friends at an informal party Monday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Douglas Chomeau, the latter formerly Miss Mary Bryan Broderick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Broderick of Kirkwood, whose marriage took place recently.

The guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Henri Chomeau, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eames, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stanley Birge and E. S. Barnes Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chomeau, who have been in Kirkwood since their marriage, have taken possession of the Chomeau home at 111 North Meramec street, Clayton.

Mrs. Theodora Benoit of the Park Plaza is recuperating at Jewish Hospital after a recent serious operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Mortimer Cross Ormrod, 4933 McPherson avenue, are expected home in two weeks from England, where they have been spending a month with Mr. Ormrod's father, Mrs. Ormrod's mother, Mrs. Lawrence B. Pierce, formerly of 16 Horne street, is making an indefinite stay in Paris with her daughter, Mrs. Helen Pierce Barker.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Pfleger, 19 Kingsbury place, and Mrs. S. T. G. King, 4516 Westminster place, are expected home late this week from a motor tour of the East. Mr. and Mrs. Pfleger went to Cambridge, Mass., to visit their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pfleger, and attended a house party given by friends whom they met on a world cruise.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pfleger will return to St. Louis in June following the closing of the Law School of Harvard University, where Mr. Pfleger is a student.

Several parties are being planned for the senior class at Mary Institute. Saturday afternoon Mrs. Ashley Gray, 9 Lenox place, will be hostess at a tea for Miss Beth Sanford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Hoy Sanford, and Miss Anne Woolsey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ross A. Woolsey, at which the class will be guests. Mr. and Mrs. Gray's daughter, Miss Laura Gray, was president of last year's graduating class. Friday the students will motor to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Y. Gladney, at Pevely, Mo., for a house party to be given by their daughter, Miss Luciana Gladney. They will return Saturday at noon. On May 27 Miss Betty Carlisle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Carlisle, 5363 Vernon avenue, will give a house party for the class at their cottage at Sugar Creek.

Miss Louise Montague Stinde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Stinde, 6279 Waterman avenue, is expected home June 7 from the Bennett School, Millbrook, N. Y., where she is a junior. Mr. and Mrs. Stinde and their daughter are planning a trip West this summer. Instead of making her debut in the fall as she had planned, Miss Stinde will return to the Bennett School to graduate next June.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lammert Jr. of Lindbergh boulevard have gone to Excelsior Springs, Mo., for two weeks because of Mrs. Lammert's health.

Mrs. John B. Strauch of Huntleigh Village was hostess at a bridge luncheon yesterday at her home. This is one of a series of similar parties given by Mrs. Strauch this spring. She will entertain another group of friends next Wednesday.

MISS MARY LUCAS HART, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hart, 4411 Westminster place, who will share honors with two other debutantes, Miss Caro Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holmes, and Miss Eleanor Conant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Conant, at a dinner dance to be given May 27 by Mr. and Mrs. Birch Oliver Mahaffey at the Bridlepath Hunt Club.

The faculty and students of the College of the Sacred Heart, Maryville, sponsored a dramatic recital yesterday afternoon by Miss Agnes Curran, gold medalist of verse speaking at London Academy and instructor in dramatic art at Maryville College. The recital was followed by a tea. In the receiving line were the Rev. Mother Gilmore, Mother Cora Shaw of Maryville College, Mrs. Edward J. Walsh, president of the Alumnae Association, and Miss Mary Virginia Taylor, president of the student body of the college.

Miss Mary Ellen Robb, Miss Mary Agnes Keeley and Miss Mary Gray McNally presided at the tea table. Miss Curran's recital included a poem, "Blindness," recently published in the Literary Digest, written by Miss Mary Josephine Padburg, a member of the junior class at Maryville College.

Miss Josephine Crum, Virginia, Ill., was crowned queen in the annual May fete at Monticello Seminary, Godfrey, Ill., last Saturday. An elaborate program in the open air theater on the campus was presented by students under direction of Miss Helen Mackey. Miss Suzanne Armstrong, Webster Groves, and Miss Jean Eden and Miss Marjorie Denham, St. Louis, were prominent in the fete. Groups of students gave national dances in costume, followed by the traditional May pole dance and coronation. Guests from St. Louis attended.

The annual spring dance of St. Louis University School of Nursing and the faculty of St. Mary's Hospital will be held in the auditorium of the Nurses' Home this evening. The chaperons will be Dr. and Mrs. G. O. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. A. Kinsella and Dr. and Mrs. William Kerwin.

The Playhouse Club of St. Louis University will entertain at a supper dance at Hotel Coronado tonight. The officers of the club are: Laurence Neville, president; Frank Bealke, vice president; Miss Ida May Croson, secretary; Miss Kathryn Holland, treasurer. The work of the organization is supervised by the Rev. Thomas M. Knapp, S. J., and Milton McGovern.

New Episcopal Bishop.

By the Associated Press.
ORANGE, N. J., May 11.—The Rev. Dr. Benjamin M. Washburn, rector of Emmanuel Church, Boston, was elected Bishop Coadjutor of the Episcopal Diocese of Newark today at the fifty-eighth annual convention of the diocese, which was held at the Hotel Marlborough in Newark. Dr. Washburn went to Boston in 1929 from St. Paul's Church, Kansas City, Mo.

12 U. S. WOMEN TO BE PRESENTED AT COURT

Will Curtsey to King and Queen of England Tonight—Eight More Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 11.—Twelve American women will stand for one brief moment before the King and Queen of England at Buckingham Palace tonight and hear the softly spoken words of presentation. Then they will curtsey and depart. The presentation will be the climax of weeks of excitement and preparation—hours spent at dressmakers and long lessons in court etiquette. There will be hundreds of others from all nations present.

'JAKE THE BARBER' TRYING TO SETTLE FOR $1,100,000

Insists, However, That Money Go to Poor People Who Need It.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 11.—John (Jake the Barber) Factor, who turned financier and allegedly mulcted British investors of $7,000,000, said yesterday his attorneys were attempting to settle the investors' claims for $300,000, about $1,100,000.

Factor, now operating as a La Salle street trader, is to appear in Federal Court Saturday in a suit by some of the investors to break a $3,000,000 trust he established for his wife.

I am willing to settle for $300,000 if I have the assurance the money will go to the poor people who need it," Factor said. "My offer does not imply any admission of wrong doing. I did nothing any other broker would not do."

Factor has been center of a long drawn out litigation since his arrest last summer on a charge of receiving money knowing it to have been fraudulently gotten, a British felony.

Factor made it clear that if his $300,000 offer is accepted, the money would be paid only if all criminal charges against him and efforts at extradition were dropped. His attorneys, he said, are now on the way to this country after conferring with the British receivers for his London brokerage business on behalf of 1500 creditors.

Arthur C. Crunden Dies
AFTER OPERATION IN NEW YORK
Broker Formerly Was Vice President of Woodware Company in St. Louis.

Arthur C. Crunden, 37 years old, a broker and former vice president of the Crunden-Martin Manufacturing Co., died last night in New York, his home for the last two years. He had undergone an abdominal operation two weeks ago.

Mr. Crunden was born in St. Louis and was educated at the old Smith Academy and Yale University. The Crunden-Martin company, maker of woodware, was founded by his father, the late Frank P. Crunden. Arthur Crunden resigned as vice president two years ago and went to New York to engage in the brokerage business. He held a seat on the New York Stock Exchange.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Crunden; his widow, Mrs. Christine Crunden; a 2-year-old son, Warren; three sisters, Mrs. Festus J. Wade Jr. of St. Louis and Mrs. W. C. Cole and Mrs. W. W. Skinner of St. Paul, Minn., and a brother, Walter M. Crunden of St. Louis. Funeral services will be held in New York Friday at 3:30 p. m.

BRICK, SAYING 'GIVE US BREAD,' THROWN IN JOB-FINDER'S HOME
Residence of Federal Director of Employment Guarded at Wilmington, Del.

By the Associated Press.
WILMINGTON, Del., May 11.—Police were guarding the home of Francis E. B. McCann, Federal Director of Employment, today after learning that a brick bearing the words "Give us bread" had been thrown through a window of his residence.

The incident occurred yesterday after Chairman Frank A. McHugh of the Municipal Employment and Relief Committee had announced the exhaustion of funds would compel cessation of relief work at the end of this month. The committee, McHugh said, had spent $650,000 in the last six months, of which $275,000 was for family relief.

are mostly in Gen. Kenkichi Ueda's Ninth Division. They will be withdrawn within a month.

What Japan Expects.
Meanwhile, the spokesman said, Japan expected the Chinese to observe the armistice signed last week and also expects that the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy, whose representatives also signed the pact, will act promptly and effectively if the Chinese commit any act of transgression.

"Since the decision was due to a desire to conform to world opinion and to end the world-wide odium which has fallen upon us," he said, "Japan will hold the other nations accountable if Shanghai is again endangered."

The withdrawal, he said, was dictated by political considerations, and the question of finances or the increasingly disturbing Manchurian situation did not enter into it.

The spokesman said that Japan's decision to forego the right to station armed forces at Shanghai, something for which it contended strenuously during the two months of negotiation that followed the fighting, was due to a recognition that it is an international city and other powers were responsible for its defense against Chinese outbreaks.

The Government hoped, he said, that the withdrawal of troops would facilitate the early convening of a conference of the interested Powers to discuss the city's future and proposals for a permanent neutral zone.

After the Ninth Division leaves a small force of bluejackets only will remain there to protect Japanese residents.

The Young Wife

by Arthur Somers Roche

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

It was so unfair, Cordova laughed at the futility of words to express what she had done. But the finest thing in man is his unwillingness to do a hurt, and she had played upon this weakness in him. She had aroused his pity.

Fifty? The word, floating along the torrent of his thoughts, deflected its course for a moment. If she had aroused his pity last night—and today—how much more should she arouse it now? Yesterday she had been a young girl who had been mistaken, through his own fault or carelessness, into taking a position from which he could not, in kindness, dislodge her.

But tonight she was a girl who had done an incredibly wicked thing and whose conscience had forced her to confess. What torments of regret must she be suffering now? She had pride. How that pride must be muddled by her own contempt! It was all very well for him to sneer at what she called love, this emotion that had led her into willingness to wreck his life if thereby she might gain something for herself.

But if it wasn't love, it probably was the nearest thing to it that she would ever know. Even the most unbelievably selfish persons, the person who ignores others completely in the satisfaction of his own desires, must find moments of devotion when he wants, if not to be good, to seem good in the eyes of his beloved.

Lying there in that next room, shivering at an anger which he had not phrased, what must he be musing? To have offered such a self, and to have been rejected. But he couldn't dwell on pity. His torn emotions knitted themselves together in one garment of anger.

Then, as the train rumbled and roared, through the night, anger gave way to calm. He was in a situation, on a spot, as the picture-quester of the day had it. It is very well to damn causes, but it is better to face results. He could not go on indefinitely in mere bemoaning of the situation. What was he to do?

That gesture of closing the door upon her had been sufficient for the moment—and sufficiently melodramatic, too, he told himself. But there was the morning to be faced, the next day, the days to follow. The shutting of a door would not be sufficient to meet the thousand awkwardnesses that would arise.

Awkwardness? Again he sneered at the ineptness of his phrasing. The woman in the next compartment was his wife. By all the laws of God and man she belonged to him and he belonged to her. There were rights involved in the contract of marriage. For a moment something ugly reared itself in his brain and he felt that surge toward cruelty which unfairness arouses. But he put that from him.

DIVORCE. Oh, of course. But a divorce can't be applied for 24 hours or so after a marriage has been entered into. There were people to whom such an action had been possible, but they must be utterly lacking in dignity, in restraint. To advertise to the world that marriage had been an instant failure argued a complete lack of pride.

It was the immediate future that must concern him now. The later adjustment to be made through the courts could wait.

The train groaningly slowed down, halted. For a moment he was tempted to seize his bags and leave the train. To leave her, definitely and at once, would at least be the beginning of a solution. But doing a thing like that meant leaving her to face the necessity of giving explanations. She deserved little from him, but he would give more than her deserts.

Then another phase of the situation presented itself. He had heard, some gossip of the trivial sort, about himself. He had had a normal relish for an amusing scandal that all people not too nice-nice have. But not when the amusing scandal was about himself.

He had stepped into a marriage which had already attracted more than its share of newspaper space. He could trust Gladys, but another bright young man of the press might very well discover that Cordova's acquaintances with his wife had commenced less than a week before he married her. The prominence of Daniel Carmichael, added to the fact that Cordova's was one of the best-known names in the history of Manhattan, would assure that the press would make every effort to find excuse for headlines. Wherever there is romance among the fortunately placed, there one will find reporters.

And how much more avid for news would be the reporters if there were any sign that a rift had instantly developed in the marital bliss of the Cordovas? Cordova, who hated the idea that any one should know his affairs, shuddered as he contemplated the exposition of his domestic linen on the newspaper wastrel.

And so, as far from extinction from his predicament as he had been when he slammed the door upon Deborah, Cordova finally awoke. He awoke with the sun streaming upon him. Through the window he could see the Maine landscape. There were hills in the distance, a glimpse of long waters and forests of pine and birch. He seemed to find the softness of his own bed.

BENNETT vs SWANSON

In a Great Social War

Constance and Gloria, Belles of the Town, Do Battle for the Services of a Swedish Masseuse in a Comedy of Blunders.

—By SYLVIA'S SECRETARY—

This is the sixth of a series of stories on the Hollywood experiences of Sylvia, beauty expert for the film notables.

AND then, one day, Miss Bennett had to wait because Sylvia was busy on Miss Swanson. That was the match that touched off the fireworks.

They were waiting to be touched off, according to the rumors of a private difference between the two. Anyway, it was plain on the lot, from the first, that Connie and Gloria weren't going to get along. It's dangerous putting two such high-powered belles in the same county, let alone on the same movie lot, where all everybody ever does in idle hours is try to steal one another's water coolers, jobs, mascara and boy friends.

One thing you've got to say for Bennett: she doesn't avoid a fight when she sees it coming. On the contrary, she sticks to the good old principle—applied equally by school kids, prizefighters, Napoleon and professional bellies—that the first sock is likely to win.

From week to week Bennett was getting more and more restless about the one thing on the Pacific lot that no one had ever dared to contest—the admitted fact that the sun was a big Klieg light created for the purpose of making a camera halo around Gloria Swanson's hair, and that any of its light that happened to fall on anyone else was graciously permitted to do so by Swanson Productions, Inc.

It's about time to take a side glance at one of the elements of this general situation which has been neglected—the snatching and grabbing of boy friends that went on under the surface. If you go back to the moment when all those little girls prefer jackstones to mumble-bee.

"Don't. Do you?" Amazingly, he found himself smiling. She shook her head. "I wasn't trying to prove how much I know."

The waiter from the dining car came to remove the breakfast things while they were discussing inconsequential. And after he had gone, Deborah pushed aside the backgammon board which the man had placed for them on the table, and rested her elbows on it, cupping her chin in her hands.

"Say it," she said. "The thousand things I deserve to hear," she said.

"But facts can't be replaced by other facts, can they?" "For example?"

"Well, marriage by divorce," she replied. "I've thought of that, of course," he said.

"He wondered at her calmness. 'Naturally. It's the only solution,' he said."

"Can you think of any other?" he asked dryly. She shrugged her shoulders slightly.

"I can—but if you haven't, we'll not bother."

"You mean—to go on with marriage?" "People have—rather than to face themselves—rather than to face the world," he said.

"I don't think I'm a failure," she said. "Sometimes not to be a failure is a bad bargain—sometimes it is a very good one," he said.

"And so, as far from extinction from his predicament as he had been when he slammed the door upon Deborah, Cordova finally awoke. He awoke with the sun streaming upon him. Through the window he could see the Maine landscape. There were hills in the distance, a glimpse of long waters and forests of pine and birch. He seemed to find the softness of his own bed."

GLORIA SWANSON . . . who stole my massecuse?

Gloria and told her she was looking like a million dollars, and Gloria shoved the boss into the news by telling the boys that her face and form had been tailored for "The Tresspasser" role by a masseuse out in Hollywood who asked you what you wanted to be—Venus or Diana—and then slapped you into a ringer for either one, take your choice.

OUT in Hollywood, things were quiet on the Pacific lot. Swanson was headed for Paris. Joe Kennedy had gone to New York. With the big boss away, all the little people were happy. And with Swanson absent, Bennett ranked supreme and was happy, too. But Bennett was smart enough to know that she would have to step down into second place again when Gloria came home. Unless—

Well, Bennett apparently decided that the best time to attack the enemy's positions is when they are undefended.

Sylvia was working on Bennett one day when the Chicago interview given by Gloria was printed in a local paper. Bennett had been reading the Murk. She looked up from the page and asked Sylvia: "Do you think it's true that you got Swanson in shape for 'The Tresspasser'?"

"Figure it out for yourself," said the boss, always the shrinking violet. "Do you remember what you looked like before I took hold of you?"

Bennett didn't say anything. Just looked as if there was a bit of strategy on her mind. She kept her thoughts to herself until the rubdown was well under way, and then she came back to what was bothering her. She took a new angle.

"Working on Gloria was a great break for you, wasn't it?" she said to Sylvia. "It's making you famous."

She was lying face down, but she twisted around to look at Sylvia as she continued.

"If you want to be famous all over the world, I could set you in places where Swanson wouldn't even get invited. Look here"—and she turned completely around and set up. "Do you want to massage the King of Spain?"

SYLVIA didn't have the answer yet, but she let Bennett rave on. "I would take you first to Paris and fix you up there so that every celebrity in the world would patronize you. Not just movie actors, either—but real people. And then I'd take you down to Spain. You know—people of the royal court. What do you say?"

Sylvia said it with a smack that laid the temptress out on the slab in position for finishing the treatment.

In the next few days Bennett returned incessantly to the subject. What she proposed was that Sylvia accompany her abroad, leaving the Pathe people to like it or take whatever other course they saw fit. Plainly, only one interpretation was to be put on Bennett's move. She had it firmly in her head that Sylvia was the secret of Swanson's beauty. The brains of these professional beauties all like that.

It's their private thoughts that give them those dimples we all adore. The amazing development that came next was that, way off in Paris, Gloria got wind of what was going on. Call it telepathy, or assume that some dear friend of both girls spent $5 on a week-end cablegram just as an investment in fun—the fact was that Joe Kennedy, sitting in the Pathe offices in New York with nothing but booking and release dates on his mind, was suddenly jerked out of his seat by a radiogram from Gloria, who had set sail for home.

The message was full of anger and hurt, and informed Kennedy that Connie Bennett, the so-and-so, was kidnapping Gloria's Sylvia from the home lot, and would Joe please call out the militia and start action at once against Bennett for mayhem and points south.

Sylvia came over in Bennett's suite late that night, giving the suite late that night, giving the lady her go-to-sleep patting, when the phone bell rang. Sylvia heard one side of the ensuing conversation.

tion, but pricked up her ears when she realized that the call was from New York and that herself was the subject thereof.

"I only asked her to accompany me on my trip to Europe," Bennett was telling Kennedy at the other end of the wire. Judging by Bennett's frequent pauses and the way she winced and explained, she was getting a bawling out.

"I don't see why Swanson misjudges me that way," she complained into the phone. "Why, I—"

Again she was silenced by an outburst from Kennedy, who raised his voice so high that his words could be heard by Sylvia.

"Is that double-crossing little bum Sylvia with you now?" he yelled.

Connie Bennett started to deny, but Sylvia was at her elbow, grabbing for the phone. She passed it over and Sylvia called into the mouthpiece: "Here I am."

Then she blinked and spluttered and tried to cut in for about two minutes while Joe Kennedy called her names. According to Joe's information, Sylvia was a traitor and a renegade and a few other things. And Bennett was—oh, well, a movie actress. And the two of you, boil your hides, are conspiring to do Gloria dirt. And after all Gloria has done for the boss: Joe Kennedy almost cried.

Which anyway gave Sylvia a chance to say the first word she had got in.

"But I'm not accepting Miss Bennett's offer," she shrieked. "And you can go to —" And she hung up.

HE turned around to go for Bennett as cause of all her woe, maybe cause of her losing out with Pathe and being put out of a swell job. But all that Bennett listened to was the part about Sylvia's Pathe connection being in danger. She pounced on that.

She was feverishly excited about putting it over. You'd think that she wanted this one thing more than anything else in the world. At the moment, no doubt she did. It was a matter of who wins? Gloria or Connie? And Connie wasn't stopping at anything to make the answer suit her self-esteem.

Sylvia was packing up to get away. She had had enough for one night and she wanted to get home and cry on family shoulders. She turned to say good-night to Bennett.

And there was Bennett, sitting up in bed, with her hand stretched out so that it was under the spotlight from the bed-table lamp. She had a star-sapphire ring on one finger that Sylvia had once admired, and she was making the sapphire flash in the light and looking at Sylvia with a cry of expression.

"Do you like my ring?" she cooed. "It's yours if you'll come." And she stretched an arm out over the footboard and tried to put the ring on Sylvia's hand.

Oh, well, the boss got out of there still unpermeated. She was impatient. And a few weeks later she was struck all of a heap one day when she happened to notice how "sapphire" is spelled, and that you split it up and it just about spells "sap hire" her. Well, the excitement was down, and Sylvia wasn't fired, and she didn't go over and massage the King of Spain, and Gloria Swanson came back to Hollywood and laughed about the whole thing (the winner's laugh), and Joe Kennedy came back and had his treatments as before.

And—and what do you know?—Connie and Gloria met up after Gloria got back from Paris, and the two girls kissed and hugged as if one was a blotter and the other the ink and they loved each other so much that it was all you could do to—oh, pass me the bicarbonate!

MIND. I'm not saying there isn't a great kick in watching a set-to like this between rival screen beauties. Maybe you'd get the same kick out of being a second to a heavyweight prize fighter or championship caliber. But the fight for screen supremacy is much subtler than what takes place around and about the prize ring. For one thing, the girls aren't supposed to speak. For another, they're supposed to lie back, look their best, and just wait for the championship to happen to them!

Bennett took the trip to Paris without Sylvia.

The struggle for the social championship of Hollywood began all over again when Grace Moore came to town. In the next story of this series Saturday Sylvia's secretary will tell how the opera singer almost won the title from Gloria Swanson.

CONSTANCE BENNETT . . . do you like my ring, Sylvia?

of a swell job. But all that Bennett listened to was the part about Sylvia's Pathe connection being in danger. She pounced on that.

She was feverishly excited about putting it over. You'd think that she wanted this one thing more than anything else in the world. At the moment, no doubt she did. It was a matter of who wins? Gloria or Connie? And Connie wasn't stopping at anything to make the answer suit her self-esteem.

Sylvia was packing up to get away. She had had enough for one night and she wanted to get home and cry on family shoulders. She turned to say good-night to Bennett.

And there was Bennett, sitting up in bed, with her hand stretched out so that it was under the spotlight from the bed-table lamp. She had a star-sapphire ring on one finger that Sylvia had once admired, and she was making the sapphire flash in the light and looking at Sylvia with a cry of expression.

Suddenly she stuck her head to her finger.

"Do you like my ring?" she cooed. "It's yours if you'll come." And she stretched an arm out over the footboard and tried to put the ring on Sylvia's hand.

Oh, well, the boss got out of there still unpermeated. She was impatient. And a few weeks later she was struck all of a heap one day when she happened to notice how "sapphire" is spelled, and that you split it up and it just about spells "sap hire" her. Well, the excitement was down, and Sylvia wasn't fired, and she didn't go over and massage the King of Spain, and Gloria Swanson came back to Hollywood and laughed about the whole thing (the winner's laugh), and Joe Kennedy came back and had his treatments as before.

And—and what do you know?—Connie and Gloria met up after Gloria got back from Paris, and the two girls kissed and hugged as if one was a blotter and the other the ink and they loved each other so much that it was all you could do to—oh, pass me the bicarbonate!

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

Helpful Humps

JOHN found a package of dates in the lunch kit and shared it with the camels.

"The dates will help the humps and the humps will help the dates," the speaker came said.

"Oh, yes. You were going to tell us how your humps helped you," John urged. "I'm ever so anxious to know."

"Yes—that's so. I was going to tell you how our humps helped us. Well, they make us strong. Our humps are like extra fat and when times are hard and we haven't much to eat we have that extra strength and fat. If you see a camel with good-sized humps you'll know he's healthy and has plenty of reserve strength."

"But you mustn't think we roam over the desert. There are members of our family who live much further north than this and they like the cold, cold weather."

"But I must be leaving you now, and so must the other camels. We've a long journey to take. Good-by, and please always remember that if you see a camel with the humps you'll know it's a Bactrian camel, and that our humps are very helpful."

"I'll never forget that," Peter told John as they wandered off. They took out the animal map. Surprises had left with them and they talked over where they would go next.

They thought perhaps it would be nice to see the members of the Zebu family so they went west and a little north of the Zebus where they had seen the tips. They could really hardly make up their minds between the zebu and the ibex.

BLIND BODY

SAYS WALKER GOT $26,535 BOND GIFT IN BUS DEAL

A. Sisto of Brokerage Firm, Interested in Promoting Parmelee Co., Testifies He Gave Them to Executive.

QUOTES MAYOR AS THANKING HIM

Had Promised to "Try and Make Some Money for Him" in Market, Witness Tells Investigators.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Mayor James J. Walker accepted in November, 1929, a gift of bonds with a market value of $26,535.51 from a brokerage house interested in financing the Parmelee Transportation Co., J. A. Sisto, the donor, testified today at the Hofstadter investigation into city affairs.

Sisto, a member of the Wall Street firm of J. A. Sisto & Co., said he sent the Mayor 13 bonds of the Hi-Grade Food Corporation, 10 of the Reliance Bronze & Steel Corporation and 10 of the Parmelee Co.

The bonds represented part of a profit of $87,960 on other stock. He testified which he had purchased with a resolution "that I would try and make him some money," meaning the Mayor.

Says Mayor Thanked Him. Later he met the Mayor, who thanked him and appeared "astonished," he said. That Sisto should have remembered a vague promise made in Atlantic City in June, 1929, to take Walker in on his dealings in Caden Oil stock.

WOMAN JAILED FOR DRIVING AUTO WHEN INTOXICATED

Gets 30 Days in Workhouse and Is Fined $100; Files Appeal.

Mrs. Kathryn Bowen, a 39-year-old widow of 3612 North Spring avenue, was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse and fined $100 by Police Judge Blaine today for driving an automobile while intoxicated. Mrs. Bowen, who appealed, said she had a glass of wine with some friends, which she took as a tonic, the morning of April 4, last, but that the wheels of her car caught in the street car tracks on the 7200 block of Gravois avenue, causing it to swerve. It struck a truck driven south by Sam Zemlick, 1223 Blackstone avenue.

Zemlick testified Mrs. Bowen's car swerved across the street, ran into him, then swerved back across the street and ran "to a house. He said she appeared to be intoxicated. Two policemen also testified she appeared to be intoxicated.
